Fee Schedule

The City Council made the move based on a recommendation from the Community Center Committee. That committee made the move based on a recommendation from local caterer Craig Bullert. He said the city would lose small group bookings at the previous rate.

Employees

The City Council unanimously approved a motion to approve a variance to the length of the employee lunch period to 30 minutes to 60 minutes. The previous length was 60 minutes.

The City Council also unanimously approved a motion to approve outsourcing folding, stuffing and sealing monthly mailings to the Sibley County DAC.

Gaylord hopes to land medical school

By Kurt Menk
Editor

The Gaylord City Council, during its regular meeting on Wednesday night, April 15, unanimously approved a motion to approve a memorandum of understanding with The Danza Group of Minnesota LLC and lay out the intent of an option and purchase agreement to develop a 600-student medical school in the current Sibley East Public School building in Gaylord.

The memorandum of understanding is just the first step in the process.

"There is a projected shortage of almost 150,000 physicians in this country by the year 2025," said Tony Danza, president of The Danza Group. "Minnesota is expected to have a shortage of 2,000 physicians during that same period. I believe it is critical that an investment in medical education be made in Gaylord, Minnesota. A medical school in Gaylord will mean that student doctors can experience first-hand the primary care needs of a rural population and become excited about being a primary care physician."

Gaylord Mayor Don Boeder, in a news release e-mailed to the Arlington Enterprise, said, "We look forward to working with Mr. Danza as a community partner in this exciting venture. We share his vision that rural Minnesota cities can become welcoming hosts to new businesses. The medical school investment results from the leadership and vision that Gaylord citizens and elected community officials have shown over the past 15 years."

The Gaylord City Council voted to work with the Danza Group, which will allow the medical school to occupy the current Sibley East elementary and junior high school, after it is relocated to a new elementary building in Gaylord, according to the news release. Both the City Council and the Danza Group believe that the existing Sibley East elementary and junior high school buildings on the Gaylord Campus can easily be renovated and transformed into a new state-of-the-art medical school.

The proposed medical school is expected to have an enrollment of 600 students, according to the news release. The medical school will add hundreds of professional and support service jobs to Gaylord and surrounding communities. The Gaylord City Council and the Danza Group plan to work together to stimulate the local economy, as other businesses related to medical education open offices in Gaylord.

The Danza Group is an accomplished developer of medical facilities, the news release said. As the Mid-Atlantic's foremost developer of decommissioned hospitals, it refocuses these buildings to help serve the expanding health care needs for numerous communities. The medical school campus will include over 125,000 square feet of classrooms and other learning centers, while the student dorms will eventually provide housing for over 300 students. The Danza Group will work with the City of Gaylord, local builders and developers, and various state and federal agencies during 2015 on plans for the medical school campus and related services for the community.

The proposal will first hinge on the outcome of the Nathan Kranz versus Sibley East Public lawsuit. Erick Kaardal, who represents Kranz, recently submitted a petition for review to the Clerk of Court at the Minnesota Supreme Court.

Second, any proposal will hinge on the outcome of a negotiated land swap agreement between the City of Gaylord and the Sibley East Public Schools. That agreement is still in negotiations.

Heiland said the city should pursue the matter, but first determine the condition of the roof and infrastructure before it makes a serious commitment.

TSE makes offer to donate administrative building to City of Arlington

By Kurt Menk
Editor

The Arlington City Council, during a special meeting at 5:45 p.m. Monday, April 20, discussed an offer from Technical Services for Electronics, Inc., to donate its administrative building along Highway 5 to the City of Arlington.

The donation would include the security system along with some furnishings, according to City Administrator Liza Donabauer. The size of the building is 10,000 square feet. The building is currently valued at $79,200.

The City of Arlington, according to Donabauer, was contacted about the offer through TSE's realtor Eric Riemer on Tuesday, April 7.

Donabauer, Mayor Rich Nagel, Public Buildings Committee member James Jaszewski, Library Board member Galen Wills, Arlington EDA Director Cynthia Smith-Strack and Arlington Public Library Director Kathy Homme discussed the offer and toured the building on Monday, April 13.

Donabauer relayed some comments made by various people during the tour.

Smith-Strack had concerns about taking the public library off Main Street and changing the footprint of the downtown area.

The group had some concerns about parking around the building.

Building Inspector Darin Haslip, who later inspected the building, said the facility was in great shape. However, he voiced concerns over the many different levels, handicap accessibility and fire code issues. He suggested that the city contact a designer and/or architect to determine how to open up the interior of the building.

During the special meeting, Public Works Director Tony Voight suggested that the facility be used as a multi-purpose building.

Wills said a new library has been discussed in the past. He added that the building could be used for a library and city storage.

Homme shared her potentials, possibilities and concerns about the building. She said funds to remodel or renovate the building into a public library could be available from the Arlington Public Library League and the State of Minnesota.

City Council member Michelle Battcher said the city should jump on the opportunity. In addition to a library, she added that there could be additional space to rent or even for a senior center.

Nagel said the City Council would need to brainstorm how to use the additional space in the building.

Green Isle votes 4-1 again for the RS Fiber Project

By Kurt Menk
Editor

The Green Isle City Council, for the second time in less than a month, voted to be part of phase one for the RS Fiber To The Home Project.

The Green Isle City Council, as part of its regular meeting on Tuesday night, April 14, voted 4-1 and approved two resolutions in regard to the fiber project.

The first resolution authorized the sale of a taxable general obligation abatement note.

The second resolution approved property tax abatement related to phase one of the fiber optic broadband communications project.

Mayor Dale ZumBerge and City Council members Brian Oelfke, John Schauer and Mark Wentzlaff all voted in favor of the two resolutions.

City Council member Shawn Harms voted against the two resolutions.

The City Council made the moves during a public hearing which was held during the regular meeting.

City Clerk Bert Panning said Green Isle was advised to hold another public hearing on the matter.

Former Winthrop Mayor Dave Trebelhorn, an RS fiber project representative, reported that all cities, except Winthrop and Buffalo, were asked to have another public hearing in order to make the bond application more bullet proof. An additional public hearing was not necessary for Winthrop since it would be the issuer of the bond. He added that Buffalo Lake would not bond, but use available funds.

Sue Kreger, who was the lone Green Isle resident to speak during the public hearing, asked questions on how the project would benefit the community and on the current debt ratio in the City of Green Isle. Kreger, who never said she was against the project, asked if another company could provide the same services without the use of tax dollars. Kreger also asked what the tax impact would be on residents in the City of Green Isle if the project failed.

City Council member Brian Oelfke said the project would attract more residents to the Green Isle community.

City Council member John Schauer said the younger generation wants more Internet speed and the fiber project would provide that service.

City Council member Mark Wentzlaff said the project would draw businesses and industry to the City of Green Isle.

Mayor Dale ZumBerge said he has not changed his mind on the project since day one. He said the fiber project would help Green Isle.

City Council member Shawn Harms made the claim that the current cost of services at his home would be lower than prices offered under the fiber project.

In addition to Green Isle, the cities of Brownton, Buffalo Lake, Gaylord, Gibbon, Fairfax, Lafayette, New Auburn, Stewart and Winthrop have also voted to participate in the RS Fiber To The Home Project.

The proposed loan for the construction of a fiber optic network in 10 towns and 17 townships will be funded through the issuance of general obligation tax abatement bonds over a period of 20 years. The cities and townships within the project area have the ability to issue bonds for this purpose and have pledged their ability to levy taxes as security.

Under the most recent of four plans presented for the fiber optic network project, the backbone that connects all 10 communities will be done in 2015. In addition, some build-out will occur in Gaylord and Winthrop this year. The remaining towns, including Green Isle, will be built out in 2016.

Green Isle's share for this phase of the nearly $8.750 million project will be almost $495,800.

The second phase of the project will be to initiate the rural build-out of the 17 participating townships in 2018.

The portion from the townships will then be issued in 2018 prior to commencement of the rural build-out.

Ordinance passes by 3-2 vote

By Kurt Menk
Editor

The Arlington City Council, during a recent meeting, voted 3-2 and approved a motion to approve Ordinance 297 - An Ordinance Amending Section 8 of Ordinance 169, the Arlington Zoning Ordinance by adding Subdivision 6 providing for limited design standards within the B-2 Central Business District.

The City Council made the move after the second reading of the ordinance.

City Council members Michelle Battcher, James Jaszewski and Jennifer Nuesse voted in favor of the motion.

City Council members Jim Heiland and Galen Wills voted against the motion.

Wills voiced concern over some language in the ordinance. He also worried that the ordinance could possibly push businesses away from the downtown area.

Heiland, prior to the vote, had conducted his own informal survey of the downtown businesses. He said some businesses favored the ordinance and some were against it. Prior to his survey, none of the business owners had been contacted about the proposed ordinance.

Mayor Rich Nagel believed that the intent of the ordinance was to have some basic guidelines and standards in place for the downtown area.

Jaszewski felt the tone of the ordinance was to provide some guidance to business owners and have some sense of uniformity in the downtown area.

Nuesse stated that there were no standards and guidelines in place prior to the amended ordinance.

Battcher said the need for guidelines and standards was part of the Comprehensive Plan which was established by a committee comprised of community members.

Battcher and Nuesse also explained that the original draft of the ordinance was much more restrictive. After feedback from the Arlington EDA, the ordinance was revised to be much more flexible and less restrictive.

Henderson Main Street named 1 of 10 most charming

Henderson caught the attention of Explore Minnesota, which listed Henderson in its list of 10 Charming Minnesota Main Streets, according to an article in the Henderson Independent.

"I thought it was pretty cool," said Henderson Chamber of Commerce president Doug Thomas. "I've been saying this lately about historic preservation: There doesn't seem to be a downside to it."

Of Henderson's Main Street, Explore Minnesota said, "Tucked away along the Minnesota River Valley not far from Highway 169, this little hillside town feels like a step back in time, with a soda fountain in its Main Street drug store, a B&B home from the 1870's and an antique shop in an 1850's log cabin. The entire street is a nationally registered historic district, and the town hosts a Classic Car Roll-in every Tuesday in the summer."

Arlington has lowest tax per capita in Sibley County

Our View: City, EDA and Chamber should market that point

Elected officials seldom receive any compliments or accolades this time of the year. The annual property tax statements have arrived and citizens have had an opportunity to review them. In the minds of most residents, taxes are just too high and they will make no bones about that when they talk to their friends and neighbors.

One interesting tidbit that most citizens forget to realize is how their community compares to other towns in the county. The City of Arlington, for example, once again has the lowest tax per capita by a long shot in Sibley County. That point was revealed during the Truth In Taxation public hearing last fall.

According to figures released at the public hearing, the municipal per capita tax for the City of Arlington was $338.92 in 2014. The next town was the City of Gaylord with a per capita tax of $424. The average tax per capita in Sibley County was $535.

The City of Arlington should remain in the top spot again next year since the City Council revised its preliminary levy from a six percent increase down to a 1.6 percent hike.

In this day and age when small cities are looking to attract residents and businesses to relocate to their communities, it would be wise and advantageous for the City of Arlington, Arlington Economic Development Authority (EDA) and even the Arlington Area Chamber of Commerce to promote the community as the town with the lowest tax per capita in Sibley County. There are many towns in the area and across the state who wish they had that same opportunity.

Ask for other suggestions to improve the fair

To The Editor,

We are still subscribers of the Arlington Enterprise, even after moving from Arlington 39 years ago. We like to read about the home town news, and the Enterprise is the best way.

We recently read that the Sibley County Fair is going to be a free fair. We live in Owatonna, home of Minnesota's largest Free Fair, "The Steele County Free Fair." It has been free since 1927. The number of vendors and spectators has grown through the years. They use many different ways to determine spectator count. 2014 attendance was 339,671. Many people attend every day, just for the food. My wife has said, "I do not cook during the fair." Many other people do the same, and end up walking around the fair and looking at the displays and buying other items from the vendors, that come from 25 states and Canada.

We also have vendors that live in southern U.S., and only go to two fairs, the Steele Co. Free Fair, then head to the Minnesota State Fair.

I would like to suggest that the Sibley County Fair Board talk to the Steele County Free Fair Board and ask for other suggestions to improve on the fair. Maybe in future years, Arlington can be known as the home to Minnesota's second largest free fair.

Watch the budget cuts

To The Editor,

I have a shirt that says on its front "When we say women and children first we're not talking about budget cuts." It seems that the party that controls the house in Congress has forgotten that reasonable people do not appreciate cuts that threaten the "safety net" of the 98 percent of the population. (Medicare and Social Security.)

In the state, the headlines say Governor Dayton's funding for preschool for all children doesn't come close to the amount that he requested. Mr. Dayton is looking at the results that will happen twenty-some years in the future. He is looking ahead for the citizens of Minnesota and the favorable business climate that the state currently enjoys. Educated work force is one of the factors that businesses consider when looking to expand. Early education sets the model for establishing the value of education. He is also considering the closure of the achievement gap in his thinking. He wants to put children first.

On the national level, the concerns that directly affect women are always the first things the opposition looks at when cuts are to be made. Equal pay for equal work should be a no brainer, but inequality still exists. Women still have to work an obscene number of days extra to receive the same pay. Family leave pay and paid sick leave are also items that ordinarily affect women more so than men (very slowly, that is changing.) There is also the matter of minimum wage (which usually affects women) that is being met with resistance.

Forever and forever more, women will have to fight a battle on the reproductive front. Abortion laws changing, women's health care shorted in the budget department, payment for birth control methods, it never ends. Roe vs. Wade finally allowed women seeking to have abortions to have safe procedures. Hobby Lobby pleading "religious beliefs," to which I say B.S. It's costing them money.

For an egalitarian concern is the proliferation of voting restrictions. In a perfect world, I would always like to see my candidates win, but to resort to restricting voting privileges is a step too far. In this democracy, every one's voice should be heard. If I am going to support the message that group represents, they had better be hearing my voice through the voting process and questions answered. My voice says the party that looks to the future for everyone will more than likely get my vote.

Let's be looking ahead for the sake of the people and state.

Bad decisions, age is only a number

By Glenn Mollette

Two police officers - one from South Carolina and one from Oklahoma should never have pulled their handguns. Their decisions took lives and forever destroyed families and their own personal lives. One cop was just 33 and the other 72.

A lot has been said about Michael T. Slager, a young man with a new baby due any day. His life is forever ruined by the decision to pull his gun and shoot Walter Scott in the back as he ran away. Much is also now being said about Bob Bates, a 72 year-old reserve cop from Tulsa, Oklahoma. He too made a very bad judgment that took the life of Eric Courtney and also forever changed lives.

Police officers have gotten more than their share of bad publicity in recent months. They've earned it.

No one feels happy about cops if they've ever been harassed or talked down to by a police officer. What person has not felt somewhat threatened when pulled over by a police officer? The police have the authority and guns.

I am a supporter of the police. What kind of society would we have without them? If I need them I want them to show up.

People should not resist arrest or run from police officers. There is no future in such actions. While I believe that most of our police officers are good, hard working and ethical people there is the occasional lone idiot who has a badge and a gun and that combination of lunacy, authority and weaponry is very dangerous. They will surely hurt somebody, destroy a family and make the news. They also make it really difficult for the good police officers.

Putting a North Charleston, South Carolina officer Michael T. Slager, age 33, in jail recently for shooting a man eight times in the back was the right thing to do. He has zero business being a policeman. Bob Bates a 72 year-old reserve officer in Tulsa, Oklahoma, said he was reaching for his stun gun but instead pulled his real gun and killed a man already on the ground. He has been charged with second-degree man-slaughter.

Two men are dead. Their families are in pain. Two police officers are going to jail. Multiple families are ruined forever. Bad decisions were made by people young and old and on both sides of the law.

PUBLIC NOTICE:
Farming in Road Right-of-Ways
can create safety problems

Sibley County Public Works has noted an increased use of highway right-of-way (ROW) for agricultural purposes. Roadside mowing in the ROW is permitted for the purpose of weed control or making hay, but tillage or crop production is not permitted (M.S.160.2715). Tillage or crop production in the ROW can cause safety issues, affect road structure, and create maintenance problems.

Highway ROW includes driving lanes, shoulders, road ditches, and sight corners at intersections. Township road ROW typically extends 33 feet from either side of the center of the road; and county road ROW typically extends 50 feet from either side of the center of the road. Utility poles and pedestals often serve as good indicators of ROW limits; however, it is the landowner responsibility to know the ROW limits. The Township Boards and Public Works Department have no desire or intention to measure every ROW line, and appreciate the general good farming practices of our agricultural producers.

Anyone who damages or alters the ROW will be held responsible for all costs of restoration. When these activities are identified, the road agency will contact the landowner to reestablish the ROW where it has been encroached upon.

Please feel free to contact any member of the following Township Boards or Sibley County Public Works with questions, or attend the regular Township Board or County Board meetings.

Ailfsborg, Arlington, Bismarck, Cornish, Dryden, Faxon, Grafton, Green Isle, Henderson, Jessenland, Kelso, Moltke, New Auburn, Severance, Sibley, Transit, Washington Lake Townships and Sibley County Public Works.
