Arlington City Council discusses 2 a.m. bar closing

By Kurt Menk
Editor

The Arlington City Council, during its regular meeting on Monday night, June 16, held the first reading of an amended ordinance to extend the closing time for on-sale liquor establishments until 2 a.m. Monday through Saturday. The current closing is 1 a.m.

Arlington Dugout owner

Matt Carney, during the previous regular meeting, made the request because "the cost of running a business is not getting any cheaper" and to help cover the additional cost of the new license at the Arlington Community Center.

Prior to the first reading, the City Council held a discussion on the issue.

City Council member Jason Ruehling voiced concern that the police department schedule would be moved back one hour. He also expressed concern that other people would "race" over to Arlington for last call.

City Council member Curt Reetz raised concerns over the additional law enforcement time and the extra open hour up in the former Community Hall.

The discussion also centered around what time last call would be held and what time patrons would be expected to leave the liquor establishment.

After the discussion, it was the consensus that all alcohol must be off the bar at 2 a.m. and all patrons must leave the liquor establishment at that same time.

The second reading of the amended ordinance will be held at the next regular meeting at 6:30 p.m. Monday, July 7. If the amended ordinance is adopted at that meeting, it would go into effect upon publication of the document in the Arlington Enterprise.

In addition to the amended ordinance, a special liquor license from the State of Minnesota is required.

In other action, Carney requested permission to use

Main Street to host a Town Cook Out with a Bike, Car and Tractor Show from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. on the third Thursday in July, August and September.

Carney was instructed to meet with City Administrator Liza Donabauer to work out the details. The matter will be brought back to the City Council at the next regular meeting.

Vandalism rampant at 2 parks in Green Isle

By Kurt Menk
Editor

Vandalism has been rampant at the two parks in Green Isle this spring and summer, according to City Clerk Bert Panning.

Sticks, papers and grass have been placed in the toilets and urinals in the restrooms at the Green Isle Baseball Park. The incident has been repeated so many times that the city now locks the restrooms each evening. Children who play at this park after that time every night are now unable to use the restrooms.

Four concrete benches at the street level and overlook the Lions Park have been tipped over. In many cases, the concrete benches have been rolled down the hill to the ball field area. The concrete benches are so heavy that the city tractor and forks are needed to haul them back up the hill.

The portable restrooms at the Lions Park have been tipped several times.

Twelve bulbs have been broken and some fixtures damaged in the shelter/pavilion area at the Lions Park.

A pellet gun or high powered BB gun have been used to shoot holes in the walls at the Lions Park.

A group of young kids tossed some firecrackers in the direction of a young woman and her child at the Green Isle Baseball Park. The young woman and her child left the park.

Green Isle residents who witness these acts of vandalism or any suspicious activity at the two parks are encour-

Streets to be chip sealed in the City of Green Isle

By Kurt Menk
Editor

The Green Isle City Council, during its regular meeting on Tuesday night, June 10, unanimously approved a motion to accept a $40,537.50 bid from Pearson Brothers, Inc., Hanover, to chip seal several streets in the community.

Mayor Dale ZumBerge and City Council members Todd Burg, Shawn Harms, Brian Oelfke and Mark Wentzloff all voted in favor of the motion.

The City Council budgeted $40,000 for chip sealing this year, but decided to go over that amount by $500-plus to finish all the streets on the list.

The streets that will be chip sealed later this summer include Western Avenue from First Street to Fifth Street, Fourth Street from Main Street to Western Street, Pine Street, Grove Street, Gloria Avenue from North Lane to East Sixth Street, Dale Circle, East Sixth Street from Church Street East, East Seventh Street, East Shamrock Drive and Erin Street.

The Green Isle City Council will hold its next regular meeting at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 24.

Unused state grant funds will be returned by Sibley County

By Dave Pedersen
Correspondent

Instead of requesting state grant funds, Sibley County is offering to send back $110,000 in approved funds for the Rush River Implementation Project that were not utilized.

Nick Bancks, Watershed Projects Coordinator, gave an update on program funding to the Board of Commissioners at the recent meeting held in Gaylord.

He asked for the ok to send $110,000 in grant funding for the Rush River Implementation Project back to the Environment Protection Agency (EPA). The funds were not utilized and the grant runs out in August.

A manure management project on farms had $67,000 in grant funds to cover 78 projects. The county had two project applications for a total of $1,800. That means $65,700 in grant funds will be sent back.

Funds were granted for structural practices for manure runoff control, totaling $100,000 for 11 practices. Eight were applied for at $70,000, so $30,000 will go back.

There was a change in projects coordinator during this period, a position that received $30,000 in grants. Because of the vacancy period, $14,300 will go back.

In other business, Sibley County approved a social media policy. County Administrator Matt Jaunich said he and staff have been working on the policy the past three months to provide guidelines for when staff wants to get information to the public in a timely manner and create avenues for communication.

The Sibley County Board of Commissioners will hold their next meeting in Gaylord at 9 a.m. Tuesday, June 24.

Arlington City Council dismisses employee

By Kurt Menk
Editor

The Arlington City Council, during its regular meeting on Monday night, June 16, unanimously approved a motion to approve the employment termination of maintenance worker Lee Zwart with cause effective Tuesday, June 17.

City Council members James Jaszewski, Jennifer Nuesse, Curt Reetz, Jason Ruehling and Galen Wills all voted in favor of the motion.

The City Council made its move based on a recommendation from City Administrator Liza Donabauer and Maintenance Supervisor Tony Voigt.

Prior to the motion and unanimous vote, the City Council met in a closed session for the purpose of evaluating an employee's performance.

Zwart had been an employee for the City of Arlington for approximately six-plus months.

In other action, the City Council unanimously approved a motion to approve the 2014 seal coating plan and authorized the advertisement for bids. The bids will be opened on Thursday, July 17. The City Council, in turn, will act upon the bids at their regular meeting on Monday night, July 21.

Sibley East Public Schools recruiting tutors after being named Minnesota Reading Corps and sites for 2014-15

The Sibley East ECFE and Elementary Schools have been named Minnesota Reading Corps and Math Corps sites for 2014. As a result, the schools will be recruiting five paid tutors for the 2014-2015 school year.

would otherwise not receive additional support. "We are seeing real results and are encouraged that students who previously were not on track to succeed are now catching up to their peers."

Piippo encourages anyone interested in learning more about Minnesota Reading or Math Corps, or anyone interested in applying to serve as a tutor, to visit www.MinnesotaMathCorps.org, or contact 866-859-2825.

In Loving Memory of Michael "Whitey" Herd

Little did we know the morning that God was going to call your name. In life we loved you dearly, in death we do the same. It broke our hearts to lose you, though you didn't go alone, for part of us went with you the day that God called you home. You left us peaceful memories, your love is still our guide; and though we cannot see you we know you are by our side. Our family chain is broken, and nothing seems the same; but as God calls us one by one we know we will all be linked again in our Lord's great name. We miss you dearly, with full hearts but with great joy because we know exactly where you are. We will continue this journey of life, living, loving and pursuing greatness and serving others just as you did.

In Christ,
Kris, Zach, Lucas & Family

Arlington Enterprise tries to feature a variety of news and photos

Our View: Readers can help by submitting news and pictures too

The Arlington Enterprise tries hard to feature a variety of news and pictures in our newspaper each week to keep our readers and advertisers happy. That can be a difficult task at various times, especially when school news can dominate the newspaper during any given week throughout the year. However, a variety of news and pictures is the constant and never ending goal at our newspaper.

Some people enjoy the hard news like city council and school board stories. Others like the school news and sports. The editorial page is very popular with some readers. Others like the police news and court reports. Photos are also a big part of the newspaper. Some people like to read feature stories and that is one area where our newspaper needs to improve upon.

Our newspaper would also like to improve in a number of other areas and that is where our readers can help out. Our newspaper encourages readers to submit birth announcements and pictures, engagement announcements and pictures, and wedding pictures with write ups. Submissions of fishing and hunting photos are also encouraged. In addition, residents are urged to submit news and photos about their children and grandchildren who may live out of the Arlington and Green Isle area.

People who have these types of announcements and pictures are encouraged to drop them off at the Arlington Enterprise office or e-mail them to kurtm@arlingtonmnnews.com.

The addition of these types of news items and pictures will help to make our community newspaper much more complete.

Letters To The Editor

Santelman responds to letter from fiber board

To The Editor,

I wish to respond to last week's letter from the Renville-Sibley Fiber Co-op board against me. It was disappointing to see their leadership resort to personal attacks and inaccuracies.

Presently, I've asked the Minnesota Attorney General to determine if the RS Fiber Coop or the RS Fiber Joint Powers Board:

- Used your taxpayer money or resources to attack a private citizen
- Violated Open Meeting Laws
- Shielded conflicts of interest related to this project

As such, I hope the Attorney General will issue a cease-&-desist for all RS Fiber activities until this is sorted out. Meanwhile, here is what I have worked on since filing for County Commissioner:

Rural High Speed Internet:
On Aug. 1, I'll facilitate a panel discussion of elected officials and internet providers to create an action plan for getting high speed internet access to anyone who cannot get it now. By business and government partnering together these scattered areas could have high speed internet within 12 months and without using taxpayer money.

Washington Lake Drainage:

In 1975 the Sibley County Commissioners and the Washington Lake Township supervisors worked together to solve a difficult CD1A ditch drainage issue for Washington Lake and Erin Lake off trunk highway 25 near Green Isle. Since about 2010, three state agencies complicated what for 35 years was a great solution. I have been briefed by an affected farmer and Environmental Services. In 2015, I'll work together with the other commissioners along with State Senator Newman and State Representative Gruenhagen to help landowners get back their right of local control.

Drainage Ditch Flow Rate:

Generally speaking our ditches drain Northwest to Southeast. The Minnesota River near Henderson gets a lot of the water. If it flows too quickly Henderson gets too much too fast; yet, if it flows too slowly western and central fields hold water too long. I'll work together with the other commissioners to ensure drainage without flooding.

Phase 3 Ditch Redetermination:

Five years ago, Sibley County embarked on a 20-year county-wide ditch tax redetermination. Phase 3 begins soon and while phases 1 and 2 went well, I'll be there to advocate for landowners.

My friends, together you and I can solve just about any challenge facing us.

Research both sides of the fiber project

To The Editor,

My husband, Mark Santelman, is running for Sibley County Commissioner seat #5. I am responding to last week's RS Fiber Co-op letter.

After 24 years, I, better than anyone, know Mark Santelman. He is a man of tremendous patience, kindness, and tolerance and a great sense of humor. Our children and I love, honor, and cherish him. His ability to research facts and talk with you, the citizens of Sibley County, to get your thoughts and input on important issues is impressive. Admittedly, he has zero tolerance and patience with anyone taking advantage of you, which is what he believes is happening to you with the fiber project. To him, there is no humor in this and his tenacity to protect you can come across to RS Fiber Co-op as not being kind.

It is my hope that you research both sides of this issue and come to the conclusion that Mark is not lying or using scare tactics or making up your mind for you. Whether or not you vote for my husband (I hope you do), never doubt that our six children and I stand by him. We know how much he treasures you, and conversely we treasure him for that.

Minnesota ban on triclosan may have broader impact

By Senator John Marty

Although many people have never heard of triclosan, most of us have it in our bodies. Triclosan is an antimicrobial chemical that was added to consumer products including soaps and toothpaste several decades ago and marketed as a benefit for users because it could kill bacteria. It was a successful advertising tool, and has been used by so many personal care product companies that for a time, it was difficult to find a liquid hand soap that did not contain triclosan.

However, researchers have found that our bodies absorb this chemical. It shows up even in the breast milk of nursing mothers. Triclosan and its derivatives have also been found downstream from wastewater treatment plants.

Like many other chemical additives to consumer products, triclosan's widespread use occurred despite the lack of evidence that it is beneficial to consumers' health, and despite growing concerns about possible risks to health and the environment.

Fortunately, the Minnesota legislature recently passed the nation's first state-wide ban on the use of triclosan in consumer soaps. Because of lobbying by the industry, we were able to pass the legislation only by delaying its implementation until 2017, but the new law will eliminate most of the triclosan that ends up in Minnesota waters. In addition, although the law has no legal impact elsewhere, it may help increase public pressure on the industry, speeding up the elimination of triclosan nationally.

Environmental concerns about triclosan have grown after pioneering research by Professor Bill Arnold at the University of Minnesota documented that triclosan in wastewater breaks down into some forms of dioxin. We don't yet know the extent of risk from triclosan-derived dioxins, but we should certainly be concerned about their impact on aquatic ecosystems.

Health risks from triclosan are an equally important concern. The impact of exposure to triclosan on our skin (from soap and body wash) and in our mouths (from toothpaste and mouthwash) is not fully understood, but triclosan has been shown to interfere with hormone functioning in lab animals. As a result, scientists recognize that it may also affect human liver, blood, and reproductive systems.

There are also concerns that triclosan may add to the growing problem of antimicrobial-resistant bacteria. This is a significant public health problem of its own, as doctors and hospitals increasingly struggle against infections that don't respond to antibiotics.

Former Minnesota state epidemiologist Dr. Michael Osterholm has said that soaps containing triclosan give no more protection against infectious disease than use of regular

Road Closed

A reconstruction project along County Road 166 leading out to the Arlington Sportsmen's Park started on Monday, June 16. The project will include the replacement of two bridges. The bridge work is expected to take approximately four months which will likely mean the portion of road over the two bridges will be closed until November. In addition to the bridge replacements, Sibley County will also build two new pedestrian bridges for the Prairie Line Trail project in that same area.

Sibley County Historical Society to meet on Tuesday evening, June 24

The regular monthly meeting of the Sibley County Historical Society will be held at the museum in Henderson at 7 p.m. Tuesday, June 24. The museum is located along Highway 19 at the west edge of Henderson. Everyone is welcome, according to Curator Sharon Haggemiller.

Members Steve and Becky Briggs will give a program on Vintage Postcards, collecting and research.

People who drive through Henderson lately may notice that the trim on the museum building looks a bit different. Painter Glen Deno, Gaylord, and his crew have been busy scraping and priming the wood trim and the porch. It is a part of the spring clean up effort.

"In the process, however, he found some fascia damage," stated Haggemiller.

"Birds have been flying in and out, using the space as their home. All needs to be fixed before the painting can be completed. Being on the National Register of Historic Places, all exterior work has to be done according to the Secretary of Interior's Standards of Rehabilitation. The society membership is fortunate to have some retired contractors on hand to help with the situation."

The Sibley County Country Schools book is coming along. The committee will still take any information people have to offer. Pictures and souvenirs are scanned into its system and returned. People are encouraged to tell the SCHS members about their experience while attending country school, or even stories told to them by parents or grandparents. This book is not just names of students or teachers of Sibley County Country Schools, but also includes the interesting stories of things that happened during the school days, chores that had to be done, games played, etc.

"I believe the committee is still looking for any of these items from schools in Faxon Township, Districts 21, 42, and especially districts 22 and 23 to scan or photocopy for use in the publication," said Haggemiller. "The committee is working countless hours to obtain, put together and publish information to give the public a book that will intrigue its readers and one that will be read often."

Stop by to see the Country Schools display. The museum is open from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sundays. Starting June 17, soap. Because the benefit of triclosan is minimal or nonexistent, and the harm or risks resulting from its use are significant, it is wise to heed the recommendations of medical professionals and the Minnesota Department of Health, to stop using triclosan.

Last year, Governor Dayton took the bold step of directing state agencies to stop purchasing products containing triclosan. Now, this new Minnesota law requires the phase out of triclosan in consumer soaps by 2017.

Minnesota's leadership adds to the growing pressure on personal care product manufacturers to phase-out triclosan. While triclosan was once used as a marketing ploy to make consumers believe they were buying a superior product, we are reaching the point where triclosan is becoming a liability to product marketing. One major toothpaste company still adds triclosan, but its competitors do not, and many now advertise that their toothpastes are "triclosan free."

The real impact of this legislation will likely occur long before the ban takes effect in 2017, by encouraging other states to adopt similar bans and by increasing pressure on the industry to stop using triclosan.

Consequently, this legislation might help bring about the elimination of triclosan from personal care products - nationwide - even before the Minnesota ban formally takes effect.

Ridgeview's initiative to raise money for area non-profit organization grows

Ridgeview Medical Center has provided more than $10,000 to 66 local nonprofit organizations since September 2013, when it launched a new giving initiative in partnership with DoTopia.

With goals to help improve their health while giving back to area nonprofits, hundreds of people have taken action and registered with Ridgeview's Family Health Manager online tool and directed $15 to one nonprofit of their choice located within Ridgeview's five-county service area.

"An increasing number of individuals and local nonprofits are benefitting from this initiative, and it's rewarding for Ridgeview to help 'give back' and support those who make a difference in the lives of others in our communities," said Robert Stevens, president and CEO, Ridgeview Medical Center.

"We are thrilled to benefit from the DoTopia initiative sponsored through Ridgeview Medical Center," said Joel Landskroener, Executive Director, Mayer Lutheran High School. "Not only did our school raise money to help our kids, but those who participated also received suggestions that improved their health IQ and enjoyment of living. We are grateful for the opportunity to help people and to improve the quality of life in our school community."

Individuals can take control of their health and raise money for a nonprofit

To direct a one-time $15 donation to the nonprofit of their choice, individuals are invited to:

- Create a Family Health Manager account at <http://health.ridgeviewmedical.org>, and
- Complete a short, online health assessment, and
- Log at least two health interests and enter an organization's unique code when prompted (look for the list of codes, by organization name and city, on Ridgeview's website).

Family Health Manager is a free tool available on Ridgeview's website, designed to help adults proactively manage their health and the health of their family members. The interactive tool includes an online health assessment, through which an individual "Health Score" is generated across 10 categories—helping people identify and track progress toward health goals, connect to local resources and receive recommendations to improve health.

Family Health Manager also includes information about local health care providers, health and wellness classes and programs, interactive health information and more, including:

- A place to log and track key health numbers—such as blood pressure, cholesterol, etc.
- Action steps to improve personal health scores in key areas of wellness (activity, nutrition, sleep, pain management and well-being)

Roadsides are important habitat for pollinators and pheasants

Delaying roadside mowing until Aug. 1 benefits pheasants, songbirds, pollinators and more, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

"With a growing concern for pollinators, we all need to do our part to protect wildflower habitat," said Carmelita Nelson, DNR prairie grassland coordinator. "That's why we urge owners of land along Minnesota roads and highways to avoid mowing or otherwise disturbing the roadside vegetation until after Aug. 1 or even until the fall to provide flowers for bees and nesting cover for birds."

Roadsides with native wildflowers are especially beneficial to native bees. Research has shown that the width of the roadside and the proximity to traffic does not matter to bees. Minnesota beekeepers place a high value on roadside wildflowers. The loss of habitat is one of the critical causes of the decline of both wild bees and honeybees.

Roadsides also provide more than 500,000 acres of nesting areas in the pheasant range of southern and western Minnesota. Roadside habitat is especially important in intensively row cropped regions where there is little other grassland available.

"After a difficult winter and wet spring, we are concerned about pheasant nesting this year," said Scott Roemhildt, DNR information officer. "In spite of the weather, pheasant nesting is pretty much on a typical schedule."

Most pheasant hens are currently sitting on nests and will hatch their broods in mid- to late June. A nesting hen lays eggs at a rate of about one per day. Nests contain an average of 12 eggs. The incubation period is 23 days and starts after all eggs have been laid. The hen remains on the nest, leaving only briefly to feed. If the nest is destroyed, the hen will repeatedly nest until she is successful in hatching a clutch, although re-nesting clutches have fewer eggs.

The peak hatch time for pheasants (about 60 percent) is the third week in June, but depending on the weather there are still a lot of birds nesting in early July. Hens will make from one to four attempts at nesting during the spring nesting season, but will only hatch one brood per year.

Chicks need to be at least two to three weeks old to have any chance of escape from mowers. By Aug. 1 the reproductive season is over for most pheasant with the exception of a few late re-nesting attempts.

In Minnesota, between one-fourth and one-third of pheasants are hatched in roadsides. Roadside are also important habitat to teal, mallards, gray partridge, many grassland songbirds, frogs and turtles.

The way roadsides are managed can influence the abundance of local wildlife populations. Roadside should also be protected from burning, crop tillage, grazing, blanket spraying of herbicides and vehicle encroachment during these months. At sites where noxious weeds are a problem, it is recommended that landowners use spot mowing or spraying for treatment.

For more information on the Roadside for Wildlife program, visit the DNR website or contact the DNR Information Center at 651-296-6157 or 888-646-6367.
