School Board approves land swap agreement

By Kurt Menk
Editor

The Sibley East School Board, during its regular monthly meeting in Arlington on Monday night, July 20, unanimously approved a motion to approve the Like-Kind Exchange and Option Agreement with the City of Gaylord.

School Board members Brian Brandt, Beth DuFrane, Laura Reid, Missy Weber, Dan Woehler and Sarah Ziegler all voted in favor of the motion.

The document was drafted by the Schauer Law Office, Winthrop, and reviewed by School District Attorney Tony Nerud.

The Gaylord City Council is expected to approve the same document during its next regular meeting.

The Sibley East Public Schools will receive approximately 22 acres of property located east of the storm sewer in the City of Gaylord. This will be the site of the new elementary school.

Sibley East and the City of Gaylord continue to discuss who will cover the cost of the 15,000 cubic yards of fill needed at this site, according to Superintendent Jim Amsden. He added that the estimated $187,000 cost is well within the scope of the project budget.

Furthermore, Amsden reported that Sibley East will work on an emergency plan for ammonia and LP leaks for the new elementary school in Gaylord and the renovated building in Arlington.

In exchange, the City of Gaylord will receive property located along Highway 22 which includes three softball fields, football field and football practice area. Sibley East will have the right to continue to use these current school athletic facilities. Sibley East and the City of Gaylord will enter into a separate facilities lease for a cost sharing of maintenance and improvement costs and a process for termination of the lease.

In addition, the City of Gaylord will receive the Sibley East Junior High School building and the parking lot located north of the facility.

Sibley East will have the right to continue to use the current school building and the obligation to maintain the building in its present condition until the new school building is constructed and ready for occupancy.

Along with this exchange, Sibley East will provide for abatement of asbestos from

School Board approves moves for advisor and advisor edition

By Kurt Menk
Editor

The Sibley East School Board, during its regular monthly meeting in Arlington on Monday night, July 20, approved two moves in conjunction with the construction of a new elementary school in Gaylord and the renovation of the existing school building in Arlington.

The School Board unanimously approved a motion to approve Draft AIA Document C132 Standard Form of Agreement Between Owner and Construction Manager RA Morton and Associates, Inc., as Advisor.

School Board members Brian Brandt, Beth DuFrane, Laura Reid, Missy Weber, Dan Woehler and Sarah Ziegler all voted in favor of the motion.

The School Board also unanimously approved a motion to approve AIA Document B132 Form of Agreement Between Owner and Architect, Construction Manager as Advisor Edition.

Superintendent Jim Amsden reported that bid packages "will be ready to go in September."

Reconsider Soccer

School district resident Erica Mendez asked the School Board to reconsider an earlier decision to dissolve the soccer co-op agreement with the Glencoe-Silver Lake Public Schools.

The School Board, by a 4-1 vote, made the decision during a regular monthly meeting in June. The decision was made due to low numbers and the lack of a strong feeder program.

Mendez said the School Board did not have all of the accurate information and the public did not have adequate time to provide input on the matter.

Mendez said Sibley East has never promoted soccer or recognized the student-athletes in that sport.

Brandt said there are a lot of elementary children playing soccer, but the numbers drop off in the junior high.

Brandt and Weber added that parents are needed, much like in other sports, to assist the soccer program during the off season.

Mendez said G-SL is very accepting of the Sibley East student-athletes in soccer and the coaches are willing to attend a meeting and make a presentation.

Since the comments were made during the visitor/guest comment portion of the meeting, the School Board was unable to make any formal decision on the request.

Brandt, however, said the School Board could discuss the request at a future meeting and decide if it would like to revisit the issue.

Amsden reported that it would be too late for the School Board to revisit the issue at its next monthly meeting in August. The School Board, he added, would have to call a special meeting very soon.

Bids

The School Board separately and unanimously approved several motions to accept a variety of bids for fiscal year 2016.

Bimbo Bakeries USA was awarded the low quote to provide bakery products. Kemp's was awarded the lone quote to provide dairy products. Indianhead Foodservice and Reinhart Foodservice were awarded the low line item quotes to provide food products. Gaylord Sanitation was awarded the low quote to provide refuse collection. UFC was awarded the low quote to provide diesel.

Other Business

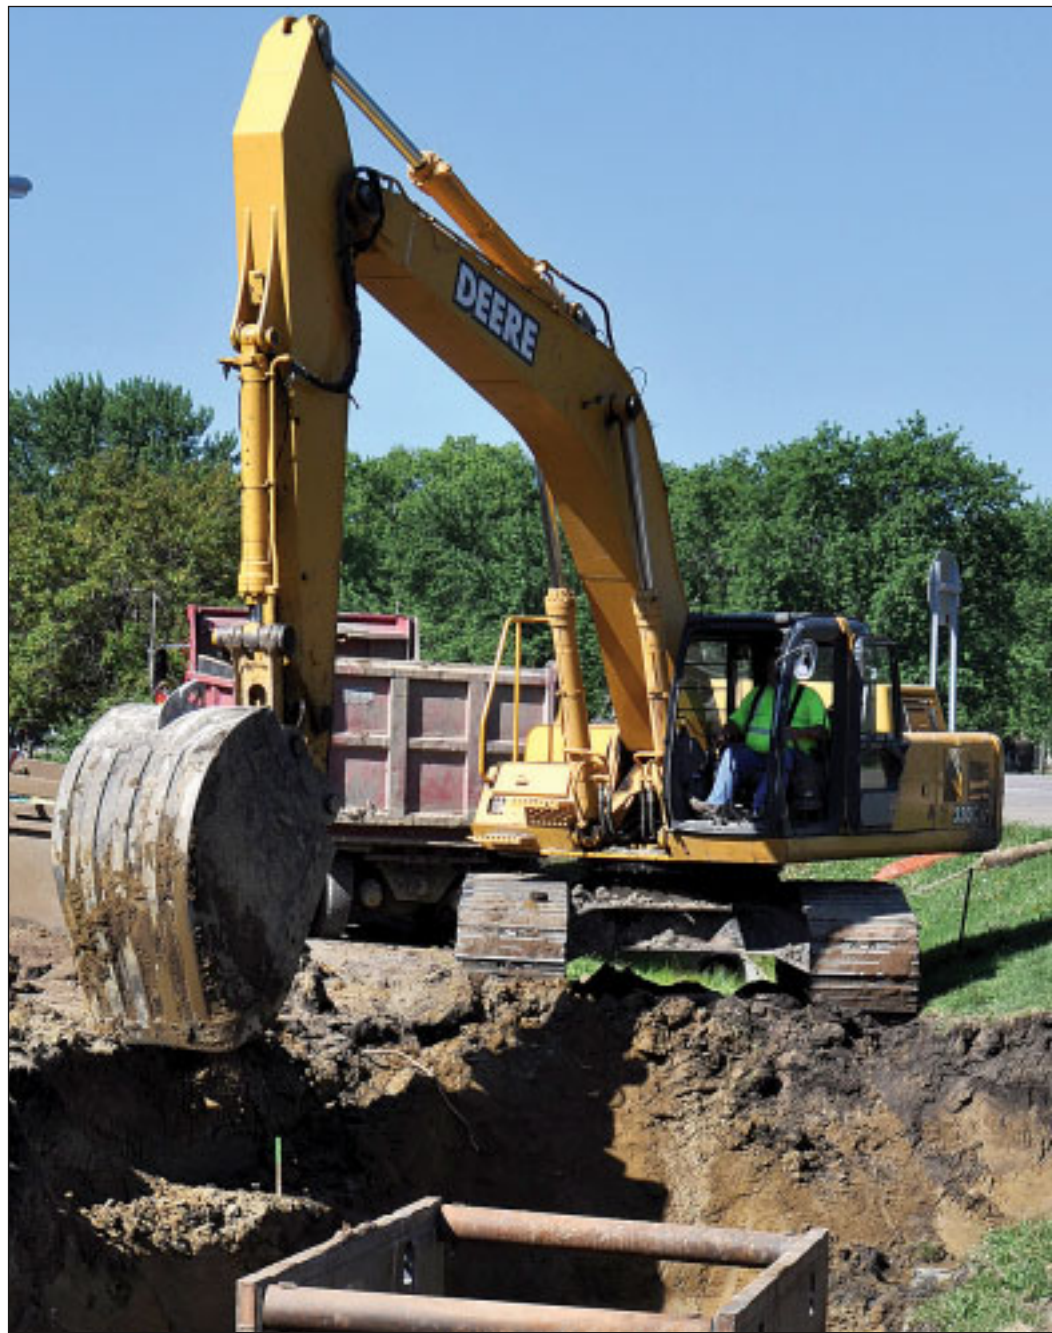

The School Board separately and unanimously approved motions to renew its membership and services with the Minnesota School Board Association and Minnesota Rural Education Association.

The School Board also unanimously approved a motion to approve the Project Ed 21 Handbook.

In other action, the principals will send out the elementary, junior high and senior high handbooks to the School Board members for review.

For additional School Board news, please refer to News Briefs on page 2 in this week's edition of the Arlington Enterprise.

The Sibley East School Board will hold its next regular monthly meeting in Arlington at 6:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 17.

Group opposed to Sibley Wind asks PUC to revoke permit

A group of local officials and residents have asked the state Public Utilities Commission to revoke the site permit for Sibley Wind Substation, according to a recent article in The Free Press.

The request, which was dated Tuesday, July 14, argues that the developer Sibley Wind Substation LLC had not made continuous construction as required in a May 12 order from the commission, the article said.

"There has continued to be no SWS construction activity at all," the request said. "The July 1, 2015, deadline for construction activity set in the Commission order passed 13 days ago."

Star Distributed Energy, which controls Sibley Wind Substation LLC, first applied for a permit in 2008, according to the article. The permit is for 10 turbines with a maximum capacity of 20 megawatts. Over the course of a year, turbines produce up to 25 percent of their maximum capacity, so this project could produce enough electricity to power about 3,800 homes.

Steve Estes, president of Star, was busy during a call from The Free Press on Friday morning, then did not return afternoon calls at his work or cell number.

Estes told The Free Press in May that work on the project had begun with $1.7 million in electrical upgrades and other civil work. After the utility work, the site work for the 10 foundations and turbines was required to begin by the end of June. Estes said turbine construction was expected for the fall.

State Representative Glenn Gruenhagen, R-Glencoe, signed the revocation request with 38 other boards, families or individuals, according to the article.

Gruenhagen said he opposes the project because wind and solar energy subsidies increase the cost of electricity for power, in wind's case, that is inconsistent, the article said.

"It's hurting our businesses, it's hurting our residents," he said. "And, in the end, it's producing lower tax revenues. We're pursuing a ridiculous idea through government mandates."

Finally, Sibley East will grant the City of Gaylord the option to acquire the current bus garage in Gaylord along with its parking lot and green space located north of the facility.

If the City of Gaylord desires to exercise the option, it must give written notice to Sibley East. Upon notice, Sibley East and the City of Gaylord will negotiate the precise terms of the option, but any terms will result in the school obtaining, or being provided funding for, a new school bus garage and storage facility similar to the current facility. This option will terminate on July 1, 2020.

Trailblazer to reimburse local share overages to McLeod, Sibley counties

By Lori Copley
McLeod County Chronicle Editor

McLeod and Sibley county representatives on the Trailblazer Transit Joint Powers Board got some good news Thursday morning — their counties will be reimbursed a good portion of their "local share" from 2014.

According to Trailblazer Transit Executive Director Gary Ludwig, McLeod County is set to be reimbursed $105,483, while Sibley County will be reimbursed $52,741.

The local share is what the counties contribute to the service above what is financial through the Minnesota Department of Transportation (MnDOT) and revenue from fares.

Ludwig said Trailblazer had originally anticipated more expense in 2014 as it expanded its service to communities in Wright County.

"We didn't get service on the road as quickly as we had hoped," said Ludwig, so expenses were less than anticipated. In addition, Trailblazer had hoped to have a facility built in Wright County by September of 2014. That building will be constructed this year with occupancy expected in spring 2016.

But Ludwig also noted that Wright County Area Transit (WCAT), a coalition of Wright County cities now participating as a partner in Trailblazer Transit, still owes $77,085 from 2014.

WCAT is hoping to use money left over in the River Rider system to pay its share. River Rider, which served Wright and Sherburne counties, dissolved.

Bev Herfindahl of MnDOT said an independent audit of the River Rider system needs to be completed before the leftover funds are meted.

Herfindahl also said that those funds cannot be put back into general funds for the cities or Wright County.

"That money needs to go back to public transit, and it needs to go to someone who is already receiving transit aid," said Herfindahl.

The Joint Powers Board agreed to refund McLeod and Sibley counties, and to allow WCAT to pay its share when the River Rider funds become available.

Looking ahead, Ludwig also said that local shares by the three entities — Sibley County, McLeod County and WCAT — should be considerably less in 2015 because of increased revenues from the Wright County expansion.

Preliminary estimates are that Sibley County and WCAT will each need to contribute $21,737 in 2015, while McLeod County's share will be $43,475.

Because Trailblazer bills for some of its fares, it won't close its 2015 books until spring 2016, after all the bills are collected. Ludwig said the actual local share won't be known until that point.

In other business, the Joint Powers Board:

- Heard that the Adult Training and Habilitation Center (ATHC) is considering other transportation options rather than contracting with Trailblazer to transport clients to their jobs.

Martha Brannon, executive director of ATHC, said that the center is losing about $110,000 yearly in transportation costs. While there is some state reimbursement for transportation, it's not enough to cover ATHC's expenses.

Lisa Parthe of Functional Industries, a similar service in Wright County, said she is willing to work with ATHC to make sure it is maximizing its eligible reimbursements.

The Joint Powers Board will hear from ATHC again at its September meeting.

In the meantime, said Ludwig, Trailblazer needs to consider how to fill or transition its four schedules dedicated to ATHC if it chooses to end its contract with Trailblazer.

- Heard that bids for its Wright County facility, to be located in Buffalo, came in at about $2.9 million, its budgeted amount. The facility is being constructed by the city of Buffalo, which will lease it to Trailblazer with an option to buy.

Eagle Lake man dies after accident south of Arlington

By Kurt Menk
Editor

An Eagle Lake man died from injuries he suffered in a two-vehicle accident at the intersection of County Road 9 and Highway 19 south of Arlington at 10:41 p.m. Saturday, July 18, according to the Minnesota State Patrol.

Shawn M. Lang, 37, Eagle Lake, was driving a 1996 Oldsmobile Ciera southbound on County Road 9 when he reportedly failed to stop at the stop sign at Highway 19, according to the report. The Ciera went through the intersection and was struck by an eastbound 2007 Infiniti G35 driven by Kelly J. Tadd, 44, Minneapolis. Both vehicles came to rest in the southeast ditch.

Lang, who was not wearing a seatbelt, was ejected from the vehicle, according to the report. He was transported by the Arlington Ambulance to the Ridgeview Sibley Medical Center, Arlington, and then airlifted by North Air Care to the Hennepin County Medical Center, Minneapolis, where he died.

Tadd did not suffer any reported injuries, the report said. His passenger, Amanda L. Meyer, 51, New Prague, was transported to the Ridgeview Sibley Medical Center where she was treated for non-life threatening injuries.

The Sibley County Sheriff's Department, Arlington Police Department and Arlington Fire Department assisted at the scene.

Sibley County Fair has free admission this year

Our View: It's the best five days of summer

The Sibley County Fair Board, earlier this year, voted to discontinue all gate fees and have a free fair in 2015.

It is one of the biggest moves made during the 146-year history of the Sibley County Fair.

This year’s Sibley County Fair will be held from Wednesday, July 29 through Sunday, Aug. 2.

The Fair Board made the move after the Sibley County Commissioners increased its yearly stipend for the Sibley County Fair. In addition, monies from off season events and storage have grown to the point where the Sibley County Fair will come close to breaking even.

To help in this major transition, the Fair Board will have to institute a $5 parking fee for four days of the fair.

In addition to the free admission, the Sibley County Fair will feature a variety of activities for fairgoers of all ages including free entertainment, free horse arena events, grandstand events, heritage stage events, 4-H exhibits and carnival rides. There will also be plenty of food and beverages. Five thousand dollars in scrip money will also be given away during the fair.

As Bear Trocke and Bob Thomes always say, “It’s the best five days of summer.”

Two accountants go to their credit union on their lunch break, when armed robbers burst in. While several of the robbers take the money from the tellers, others line the customers, including the accountants, up against a wall, and proceed to take their wallets, watches, and other valuables.

While this is going on accountant number one jams something in accountant number two's hand.

Without looking down, accountant number two whispers, “What is this?” To which accountant number one replies, “It’s that $50 I owe you.”

An accountant is having a hard time sleeping and goes to see his doctor.

“Doctor, I just can't get to sleep at night,” the accountant said.

The doctor replied, “Have you tried counting sheep?”

The accountant stated, “That’s the problem - I make a mistake and then spend three hours trying to find it.”

An angry wife was complaining about her husband spending all his free time in a bar, so one night he took her along with him. "

“What'll you have?” he asked.

“Oh, I don't know. The same as you I suppose,” she replied.

So, the husband ordered a couple of Jack Daniels and threw his down in one shot.

His wife watched him, then took a sip from her glass and immediately spat it out. “Yuck, that's terrible!” she spluttered. “I don't know how you can drink this stuff!”

“Well, there you go,” cried the husband. “And you think I'm out enjoying myself every night!”

O’Gara was arrested and sent to trial for armed bank robbery.

After due deliberations, the jury foreman stood up and announced, “Not guilty!”

“That’s grand,” shouted O’Gara. “Does that mean I get to keep the money?”

“I’m so worried,” the nervous patient said as the nurse plumped up his pillows. “Last week, I read about a man who was in the hospital because of heart trouble, and he died of malaria.”

“Relax,” the nurse said smiling. “This is a first-rate hospital. When we treat someone for heart trouble, he dies of heart trouble.”

A policeman pulled a female driver over and asked to see her license.

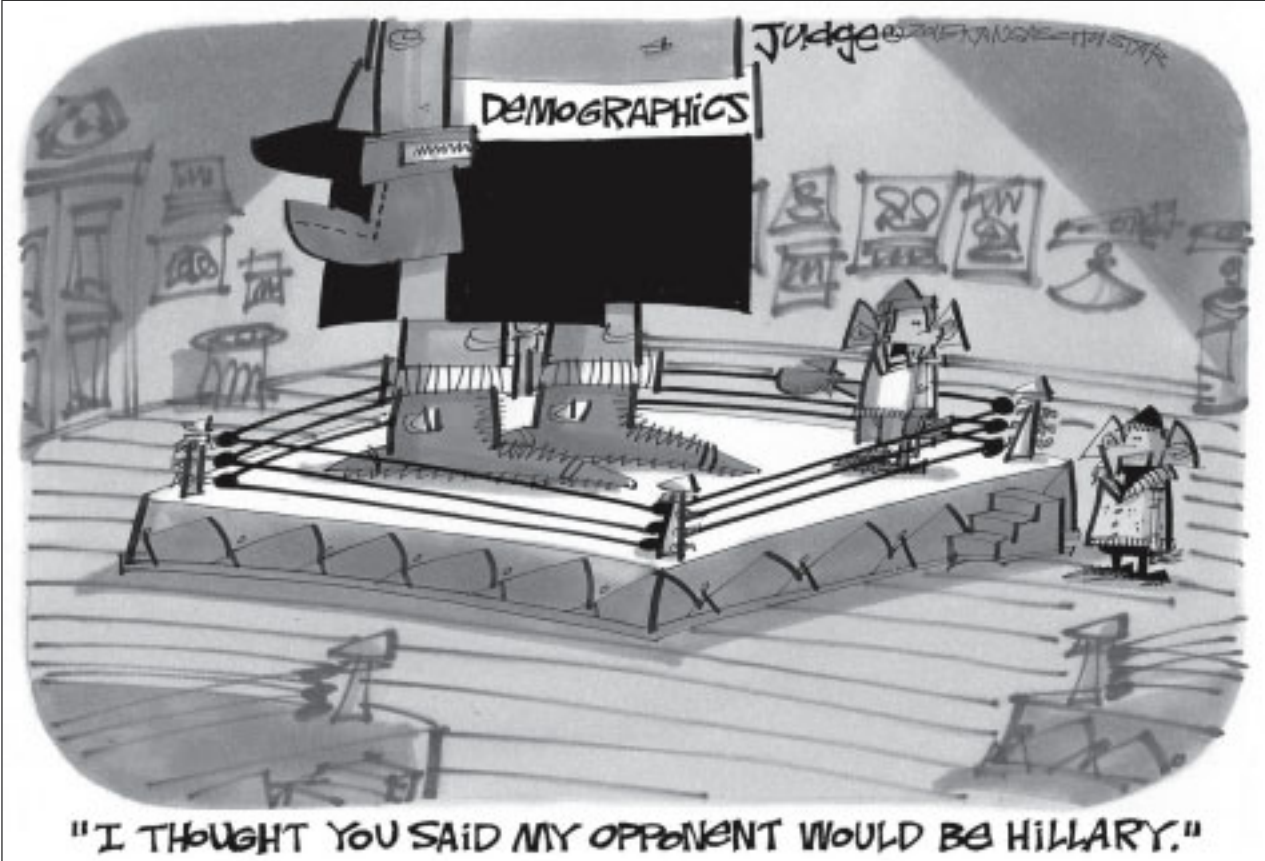

After looking it over, he said to her, “Lady, it stipulates here on your license that you should be wearing glasses.”

“Well, I have contacts,” the woman replied.

“Look lady, I don’t care who you know,” snapped the officer. “You’re getting a ticket.”

Few women admit their age; few men act it.

Letter To The Editor

MNsure has failed to deliver

To The Editor,

Last week we learned that MNsure now has a 180,000 case backlog of public-program enrollees who are unable to renew their health coverage. These glitches have left MNsure unable to send bills to thousands of people in order to pay their 2015 premiums, and MNsure is unable to check eligibility information for thousands more, some of whom may be receiving benefits improperly.

This is the latest in a long line of technical failures that have plagued MNsure since the beginning. That’s why I was glad to see HHS Chair Matt Dean and Rep. Greg Davids call for a MNsure Legislative Oversight Committee meeting so we can begin to discuss a path forward and a transition away from the MNsure exchange. Due to the Supreme Court’s recent Obamacare ruling, Minnesotans who are eligible for premium subsidies under the law are not in danger of losing support if we revert to the federal exchange. With upwards of $300 million already spent on MNsure why would we continue throwing good money after bad and not just switch over to the federal hub?

Here is a rundown and timeline of the recent glitches:

- July 2014: glitches force 16,000 low-income families to wait as long as six months for coverage (Star Tribune, 7/2/2014)
- July 2014: 3,000 MinnesotaCare recipients sent wrong bills by DHS, some for months (KSTP, 7/21/2014)
- July 2014: DHS incorrectly tells 8,700 MinnesotaCare recipients to renew by 8/1/2014 or coverage would cancel (Pioneer Press, 7/28/2014)
- September 2014: 29,000 on private and public plans waiting months to update coverage through DHS and MNsure for spouses, newborns, other life events (Pioneer Press, 9/1/2014)
- September 2014: DHS indefinitely delays transition of 800,000 insured through public programs to MNsure (Pioneer Press, 9/1/2014)
- November 2014: DHS/MNsure life event backlog grows to 30,000 (Star Tribune, 11/4/2014)
- January 2015: MNsure glitches block 7,500 from enrolling in public programs (Star Tribune, 1/13/2015)

• March 2015: 1,300 still waiting for tax forms from MNsure – one month before tax filing deadline (Star Tribune, 3/6/2015)

• March 2015: MNsure cuts enrollment projections by 68 percent for 2016

• May 2015: MNsure glitches put coverage for over 55,000 on public programs in question (Star Tribune, 5/11/2015)

• July 2015: 180,000 public program renewals delayed by MNsure glitch; 60,000 threatened with termination of coverage (Star Tribune, 7/11/2015)

Minnesotans deserve better. We can save the state money, and give citizens a better user-experience that MNsure has failed to deliver. It’s time for the Governor and DFLers to join with us in these efforts and to be honest that the failed MNsure experiment that they brought to Minnesota needs to come to an end.

When home improvement meets hometown improvement

Editor’s Note: The following article was submitted by the North American Retail Hardware Association (NRHA).

As we head into the busiest seasons for home improvement, it is important to know that where consumers choose to shop for their home improvement needs can have a dramatic impact on the communities where they live.

A new study shows that for every dollar a consumer spends at a locally owned home improvement store, nearly twice as much of that money stays in the local community than if the purchases were made at a big-box chain store.

That means, when consumers buy products at their local home improvement store, such as Thomes Bros., rather than from a major chain, local communities clearly reap the benefits.

The data comes from a study sponsored by the North American Retail Hardware Association (NRHA) and Independent We Stand, which are organizations dedicated to helping independently owned businesses succeed.

Civic Economics, an economic analysis and strategic planning firm, conducted the study on behalf of the two organizations.

The new research shows that shopping at a local home improvement business like Thomes Bros. provides a 97-percent local economic advantage, but what does that mean for Arlington? That means twice as much money goes to what matters close to home, such as schools and Little League teams.

In addition, buying power equipment from an independent dealer results in a 71 percent increase in local economic activity compared to purchasing comparable outdoor power equipment from the major chains, according to the study.

When consumers buy from chain stores, most of the money they spend leaves the area and funds corporations. But if consumers shift their home improvement spending to independent stores instead of chains for one year, $379,016 would stay in Arlington.

The potential national impact of shopping at local home improvement stores is much bigger. Together, the two largest national home center chains—Lowe’s and Home Depot—sold $114 billion in goods in 2013. If just 10 percent of that business had gone to independent stores throughout the country, hometowns across the U.S. would have collectively seen an increase of $1.3 billion in economic activity.

For more information about the study, visit www.hardwareretailing.com.

About the North American Retail Hardware Association (NRHA):

The North American Retail Hardware Association (NRHA) is a non-profit trade association with a mission to help independent hardware stores, home centers and lumberyards in the U.S. and Canada become better and more profitable retailers. NRHA fulfills its mission by providing information, training programs, educational resources and networking opportunities to thousands of retailers. Visit www.nrha.org for more information.

Butcher Bigot's new ice machine was installed last week and is now in operation. The machine is the object of much curiosity by patrons of the shop who wonder why it is possible to make ice with the mercury hovering around 90 degrees in the shade.

The school election Saturday evening attracted the usual small number of voters, the same citizens who attend each year. Dr. M. E. Bushey and R. L. Sander were re-elected to succeed themselves as members of the board. According to the officers the financial condition of the school is very good as are also the affairs in general. The question of consolidating this district with the surrounding rural districts was discussed and all present appeared to favor the proposition. The movement is very popular in North Dakota and is now being taken up in this state.

The body of Howard Mehlhop, young Arlington man who was drowned in Lake Pleasant near Annandale on Sunday, July 16th, was recovered the following Friday evening. It was found by two men from Howard Lake in about 40 feet of water not far from the spot where he is thought to have drowned. The recovery was made after a 6-day search in which hundreds of men took part. Many local organizations including the Arlington Fire Department, Lutheran Men's Club, American Legion and Sportsmen's Club organized crews to aid in the search. Many other individuals from the Arlington community also helped.

Herb Kruger, owner of the building which houses the post office, is having a big remodeling job done in that part of it. New fixtures and a new rubber tile floor have been installed, and the walls will be covered with plywood. A new vestibule will also be placed at the entrance.

Marv's Lanes, located on Highway 5 in Arlington have been sold according to an announcement this week by the owner, Marvin Boettcher. The new owner is Bernard A. Boik of Webster, South Dakota. Mr. Boik is married and the father of six. He plans to build a home just east of the bowling alley. The alleys will be closed until the middle of August for remodeling and the addition of a lunch counter.

Wm. Mathwig, one of our local fishermen, states he doesn't believe in going up north fishing when he can get the big one around here. He caught a nine and one-half pound northern pike in Buck's Lake near Henderson on July 4th.

A large 80 by 36 foot barn on the Roland Zehnder farm, two miles east of Green Isle, was completely destroyed by fire Sunday despite the efforts of the Green Isle and Arlington Fire Departments. Origin of the fire is unknown. One thousand bales of hay had been stored in the barn. The loss was partly covered by insurance.

Henry C. Hardel of Arlington, suffered electrical burns Thursday when he came in contact with a high voltage power line in Gaylord. He is hospitalized in satisfactory condition at the Arlington Hospital. Hardel, an employee of the Arlington Cement and Stone Works, was unloading concrete blocks for the new swimming pool at Gaylord, using a boom on a truck. The boom came into contact with the overhead line, causing a short-circuit to the ground.

SCHS will have exhibits at county fair

The Sibley County Historical Society (SCHS) will not have a meeting this month. Members are busy preparing exhibits for the Sibley County Fair which will run from Wednesday, July 29 through Sunday, Aug. 2, according to Curator Sharon Haggemiller.

The SCHS exhibits will be located in the former Boy Scout building between Porky's Ham House and the new Heritage Building.

"This year our visitors will be invited to help make butter," said Haggemiller. "Of course, butter goes best with fresh homemade bread and other toppings. Find out about 'Bees and Honey' from Honls of Winthrop, 'Making Preserves' from Kelly Sloat of Winthrop and 'Making Sorghum' from David Tesch of Henderson. Butter, honey, jam, and sorghum will be available for tasting."

The times of scheduled demonstrations will be posted outside of the building.

In addition, there will be a special coloring project for the children. There will also be a sample of the museum's 4-H display, and guess the mystery items.

The regular open hours for the museum are 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sundays through October. One exception will be on Sunday Aug. 2, when volunteer guides will be working at the Sibley County Fair.

The annual SCHS tour is tentatively planned for Tuesday, Aug. 24. Watch for details in newspapers and the SCHS newsletter. Check our website at sibleycountyhistoricalmuseum.com for more information.

George Foreman in Zaire, Hillary used the rope to dodge, run and hide from nasty journalistic blows in Gorham, New Hampshire.

Trump can't rope a dope. He doesn't know how. All Trump knows how to do is to stand toe to toe and throw, well, uh words. Don't let that make you withdraw from your ringside seat. Trump is extremely capable of rendering punishing blows with words that deliver one sting after another. "You're fired," and "Rapist" are just a couple of stinging zingers.

Donald Trump is not the smooth talking, teleprompter reading Barack Obama.

Trump is not the Bush Boy raised in wealth, political aristocracy and who will go out of life feeling like a failure if he doesn't make President like his dad and brother. Trump is not a slob like Chris Christie who pushes his weight around and reminds me more of a mafia boss closing a lane on the George Washington Bridge.

Actually I have never been a Trump fan. I rarely watched the Apprentice, thought he had made some personal mistakes in the past and that his ego was bigger than a Marriott hotel ballroom. However, Trump is not a career politician. He has been one of America's very successful businessmen and television entertainers. He is not stupid. He communicates even though his rant about Mexican illegals did not come out the way his Republican competition would have liked. To that I say, too bad for them because a large number of Americans are sick and tired of wussy talk and even worse, wussy politicians. Our country is at a serious juncture in our history. Look at Greece. We are headed in that direction rapidly. Something radical must be done or we will become like Greece, hungry, poor and with very little hope for the future.

Trump means business when he talks about the border, bringing jobs home and illuminating ISIS's money flow. Maybe he has not articulated the way the republicans want him to. They want him to tone it down. Interesting, illegals are running us over in this country. Jobs are flooding to Mexico and China and Americans become poorer and poorer. ISIS is on the move recruiting everybody they can via Twitter. Thus, they are asking Trump to tone it down. How can anyone running for office seriously be running a relaxed, calm and low intensity campaign? I think it's time for someone to get mad about this mess that is drowning our nation and like Howard Beale in the movie Network, get mad as hell and not take it anymore! We also need a few million Americans to wake up, get mad and stop electing wussy politicians who just want to build their legacy, get a government paycheck and then dodge dealing with issues such as illegal immigrants who have broken the law. They have invaded our nation illegally. They are working illegally. They have been employed illegally. Both the employer and the immigrants are criminals. We need a President who will crack down on these people. So, for the Republicans who are worried about tone I say, yell louder Trump. Stomp your feet and wake up the wussies. Time is not on our side.

Sibley County Environmental Services will host open house in New Auburn

An open house on aquatic invasive species (AIS) is being hosted by Sibley County Environmental Services at the High Island Conservation Club on High Island Lake in New Auburn from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 28. It is located at the end of Fifth Avenue.

The public is encouraged to discuss the potential risks and impacts of AIS within Sibley County and the region. Attendees will have an opportunity to share their comments and help guide future efforts to protect our valued lakes and streams, especially those concerning the potential impacts to waterfowl hunting.

With the rapidly growing number of water bodies infested with zebra mussels, spiny waterflea, purple loosestrife, and Eurasian water milfoil around the state, public discourse and feedback is necessary to prevent the spread.

This event includes the showing of a brief documentary produced by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, a brief presentation highlighting the current status of Sibley County's AIS program, interactive stations, and a question-and-answer session with natural resource professionals.

For more information about the event, location, and/or local AIS programming, call Jeff Majeski, Sibley County Environmental Services, at 507-237-4091 or email JeffM@co.sibley.mn.us.

DNR offers advice for dealing with storm damaged trees

Cleanup following a windstorm can be an overwhelming task for homeowners. Knowing which trees to save and which to remove can impact safety and the survival of remaining trees, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

Forest health specialist Brian Schwingle offers the following tips.

Do:

- Carefully inspect standing trees for damage and deal with hazardous trees first. If possible, ask a forester or arborist for advice.
- Trees should be removed if more than 50 percent of the trunk or live branches in the tree crown are damaged, or if the tree is leaning and roots are damaged.
- Watch for detached branches, loosely hanging branches and split or cracked trunks that can cause injury or further damage.
- Use proper pruning techniques by cutting just outside the branch collar, but limit pruning to making the tree safe. Too much pruning can damage an already stressed tree.

- Water stressed and damaged trees weekly to help them repair and rebuild. Be careful not to overwater, especially in heavy clay soils.
- Monitor damaged trees in upcoming years to make sure they don't become a hazard.
- Don't:
 - Don't be rushed by promises of bargains from inexperienced or unqualified tree service providers. Improper pruning or unneeded removal can result in unnecessary costs or loss of healthy trees.
 - Don't repair a broken branch or fork of a tree with tape, wire, bolts or other wraps. It will not heal, and the split will invite decay and further weaken the tree. Cabling or bracing should only be performed by a certified arborist and inspected annually.
 - Don't remove the tops of trees. This makes the tree more susceptible to insects and disease, and results in new branches that are weakly attached.

- Don't apply paint or dressing to wounds as these materials interfere with the natural wound sealing process.
 - Don't remove small, leaning trees. Trees less than 15 feet tall may survive if they are gently pulled back into place. Press out air spaces in the loosened soil. The tree can then be staked for up to a year.
 - Don't fertilize stressed or damaged trees.
- Information on tree care, proper pruning techniques and handling damaged trees is available on the DNR website. For more extensive information on tree care, contact a DNR forester, city forester, certified arborist or county extension staff. Take the right steps to correct damaged trees so they can continue to provide shade, clean air, beauty and increased property value for many years to come.
