Trail Etiquette

The new Prairie Line Trail has been very popular this summer. However it has been brought to the attention of the city staff that some people are not following the same set of rules. City staff has compiled a set of trail etiquette guidelines. If everyone follows the same guidelines, the trail will be safer and more enjoyable for everyone, according to Arlington city officials.

- The trail is multi-purpose- it can be used as a walking, running, biking, or rollerblading trail.

- Be courteous- all trail users should be respectful of other trail users, in spite of their speed or skill level.

- Be predictable- travel in a consistent and predictable manner, always check your surroundings when changing direction on the trail.

- Do not block the trail- use no more than half of the trail so as not to block the path of others around you.

- Keep right- stay as close to the right side of the trail as is safe, except when passing another user.

- Pass on the left- pass others, going your direction, on their left. Yield to slower and on-coming traffic and shout "on your left" when passing others. Check your surroundings to make sure the lane is clear to pass.

- Obey all traffic signs- use caution where trail crosses streets and stop at all stop signs, intersections, and driveways.

- Be respectful of private property- trails are open to the public, but parts of the trail pass through private property. Please be respectful of others' property.

- Clean up your trash- please cleanup after yourself, your children and your pets.

- Use lights at night- if you are using the trail at any time from dusk to dawn please be equipped with the correct lighting, for your safety and the safety of others.

- Do not use the trail under the influence of drugs or alcohol- you may need your reflexes quickly, don't have them impaired.

The three representatives asked if the City of Arlington could move the current transformer located on the fairgrounds property at city expense.

The cost to move the transformer would be around $3,950 in addition to about $250 in electrical upgrades.

"We project a quarter million dollars in roof repairs in limbo for 2016," Van Moorlehem read from a prepared letter. "If we are forced to pay for city owned electrical service upgrades, we will be

The Arlington City Council, during its regular meeting on Monday night, Aug. 3, unanimously approved a motion to accept the low bid of $89,393.95 from Pearson Brothers, Hanover, for sealcoating services this summer.

The recommendation was made by Streets Superintendent Tony Voigt.

The City Council had budgeted $90,000 in the Capital Improvement Fund for this project.

City Council members Michelle Battcher, Jim Heiland, James Jaszewski, Jennifer Nuesse and Galen Wills all voted in favor of the motion.

The streets that will be sealcoated include Seventh Street Northwest from Lynch Street to Olive Street, the eastern section of Olive Street, West Douglas Street from Highway 5 to Seventh Avenue Northwest, East Brooks Street from the railroad tracks to the East Brooks Street Bridge, East Alden Street from the railroad tracks to Fourth Avenue Southeast, East Baker Street from Third Avenue Southeast to past Fifth Avenue Southeast, East Clinton Street from Fourth Avenue Southeast toward Creekview Lane, East Dayton Street from Henderson Road to Creekview Lane, East Elmwood Street from Fourth Avenue Southeast to Creekview Lane, First Avenue South from East Adams Street to the railroad tracks, Second Avenue Southeast from East Adams Street to East Alden Street, Third Av-

Pearson Brothers is confident it can complete the project by late August.

The City Council unanimously approved a motion to approve partial pay estimate number three to William Mueller & Sons, Inc., Hamburg, in the amount of $312,480.90. There will be three more partial payments to follow.

In a related note, Bolton & Menk representative Jason Femrite updated the City Council on the progress of the 2015 Street & Utility Improvement Project.

Crews have completed almost all of the underground work along with some paving, sidewalk and driveway work.

Although the schedule is fairly tight, the completion of street work is still planned to meet the Sept. 1 deadline, according to Bolton & Menk representative Derek Olinger. Once utilities are installed within all streets, the underground contractor will be moving back out to the south ditch of Highway 5 to install the remainder of storm sewer which outfalls to High Island Creek. This portion of work will likely be completed about a week after the substantial completion date.

Summer Recreation

Sibley East Community Education Director Jen Strack, who was hired about one year ago, presented a summary of the Summer Recreation Program in Arlington.

Eighty children and 80 adults also recently attended a Minnesota Twins baseball game.

Approximately 50 children attended the annual Summer Recreation Night at the Arlington A's Baseball Park.

In addition, there were 30 participants in the summer theater program. The participation was almost double compared to last year.

Furthermore, there are four trips planned this summer.

Overall, youth and adult participation in the Summer Recreation Program nearly doubled in the three communities of Arlington, Green Isle and Gaylord this summer compared to last year.

Strack added that the Sibley East Community Education will be picking up the youth football program for children in grades K-6 this fall. There will be about 50 to 75 participants in this activity.

Arlington Lions Club to host pork chop dinner at Sibley East school on Aug. 23

The Arlington Lions Club has served the community of Arlington since October of 1952. During the club's 60-plus years of service to the community, it has been an instrumental part of many local construction projects such as the current Senior Citizens/warming house building at Four Seasons Park, the Fairview Park shelter and the current Arlington Public Library. The club has also made contributions to the new Arlington Community Center, Arlington Good Samaritan Center, Arlington Hospital/Sibley Medical Center, Arlington Ambulance, Arlington Fire Department and the current Sportmen's Park renovation.

Throughout the history of the club, the youth of our community, both the City of Arlington and the school district, have been high on the list of priorities for the Arlington Lions Club such as sponsoring the Arlington Boy Scout troop, co-sponsoring the Sibley East Junior and Senior High Leo Clubs, sponsoring the initial summer story telling time, donating to the After Prom Party, organizing the Lions Track Meet with the Green Isle Lions, contributing to Sibley East book programs, contributing to the Sibley East marching band drums and purchasing a sound system for the middle gym at the junior high school.

During these 60-plus years, three school districts have also served the Arlington community - Arlington Public Schools, Arlington-Green Isle Public Schools and currently Sibley East Public Schools. An All School reunion was held in 2006 in conjunction with Arlington's Sesquicentennial Celebration. Over 900 people, mostly alumni, returned to reminisce, tour the building and enjoy a program consisting of speakers from each era as well as a video of fond memories. The Arlington building site for many of those fond memories will soon be changing forever when construction begins and eventually demolition of the oldest portion of the building occurs.

The Arlington Lions, working with school administration, would like to have people join them for a last, formal look, at the school as it has been for the past 60-plus years.

Join us the Arlington Lions on Sunday, Aug. 23, when people will be able to reminisce as they tour the building between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. and maybe chose to leave a favorite memory about a particular teacher or classroom. People will be able to laugh at the hair and clothing styles as they view the video or identify with the speakers' comments, all during the 1:30 pm program.

Begin a trip down memory lane by coming early and enjoying the Arlington Lions Pork Chop Dinner (or hotdog dinner for those so inclined) on the swimming pool patio beginning at 11 am. There will be a nominal fee. The Arlington Lions will be serving until 1 p.m. or until sold out.

Ronald Reagan worked with both Republicans and Democrats to achieve goals

Our View: All politicians, especially Republicans, should emulate this style

The presidential campaign is underway and almost every Republican candidate will claim to be the heir to Ronald Reagan's legacy. These politicians will claim to adhere to Reagan's principles of small government, anti-tax, pro-life and All-American conservative style.

Republicans, however, will be missing the boat on Reagan's legacy. Unlike most politicians of today, who take the all or nothing approach, Reagan compromised his principles when and if it could help him attain his goals. Of course, he would have liked to score a touchdown on every play. However, Reagan would settle for three yards and a cloud of dust to get another first down and advance his beliefs.

Reagan signed legislation that legalized abortion in California six years before Roe versus Wade, according to Michael Collins. Reagan did so because he saw legalized abortion would eventually come to his state either with or without his signature. If Reagan would have stood pat on his principles, a far more liberal bill would have passed over his veto. Instead, Reagan stayed engaged and was able to negotiate the bill more to his terms.

Another example is the rebuilding of the military which was very expensive. Reagan knew his budget had to be passed by a Democrat-controlled Congress and he had to support the priorities of that party if he wanted his priorities funded. That meant deficit spending which led to a substantial tax hike. The country, at that time, saw one of the biggest peace time expansions of the federal government since World War II. However, the United States also gained the finest military the world had ever seen.

Reagan worked with Republicans and Democrats alike to achieve his goals. He would take half a loaf of bread over nothing. While he might disagree with a policy from politicians from the other party, he would not consider them enemies. He viewed them as fellow citizens and, right or wrong, valued their viewpoint.

That type of style is not seen much by politicians today at the state or federal levels of government. Today, if politicians do not get their way, they tend to pick up their ball and go home.

Politicians from both parties need to emulate the decency, civility, good will and patriotism that Reagan portrayed as president in the 1980s. It would make Minnesota a better state and the United States a much better country.

Just before payday, a husband asked his wife what they could do that was both unusual and cheap.

Their teenage son, overhearing the conversation, said, "Why not pay my allowance."

Walking into a local chamber of commerce office, the stranger obviously looked desperate. He approached the guy at the counter and asked, "Is there a criminal attorney in town?"

The guy behind the counter replied, "Yes, but we can't prove it."

High heels were invented by a woman who was kissed on her forehead.

Steve, a lonely bachelor, wants some company, so he buys a centipede and a small box for it to live in. That evening, he decides to go out.

"Want to grab a drink?" he asks the centipede.

But there's no answer from the box. A few minutes later, he asks again. There is still no reply. Finally, he hollers, "Hey do you want to get a drink?"

"I heard you the first time!" says a small, irritated voice. "I'm putting on my shoes!"

The following classified ad actually appeared in a newspaper: To all you hunters who kill animals for food, shame on you; you ought to go to the store and buy the meat that was made there, where no animals were harmed.

Two men were on an elevator. One man started sniffing and remarked, "Someone's deodorant must not be working."

"It must be yours," said the other man. "I don't use any."

Achieving a better life for people with disabilities

By Amy Klobuchar
U.S. Senator
D-Minnesota

Minnesota's own Hubert Humphrey once said that the moral test of our government isn't just in how we treat the young, healthy, and able-bodied. It's also how we treat the sick, the needy, and people with disabilities—those in need of a little extra support. These values are near and dear to our hearts in Minnesota, where we have long strived to ensure that people with disabilities have access to the same basic resources and opportunities as everyone else.

During my time in the Senate, I have worked to share those Minnesota values across the country. That's why I helped lead the push in Congress to successfully pass bipartisan legislation called the Achieving a Better Life Experience (ABLE) Act – a law that will help people with disabilities and their families better plan for their futures.

The reality is that people with disabilities and their families face many challenges, and their expenses can add up in a hurry. Take just one example: the lifetime cost of care for someone with autism is an average of $2.4 million when the autism involves an intellectual disability. Those with disabilities also face unique barriers to finding and holding a job and living on their own because their access to certain safety-net programs can be lost once they establish a minimum level of savings and income.

That's where the ABLE Act comes in. This law, which passed Congress with strong bipartisan support, creates tax-advantaged savings accounts – much like the 529 accounts many families use to save for college – that people with disabilities can use to cover expenses like education, housing, employment support, assistive technologies, and wellness – all without jeopardizing the other support and resources they count on.

In the months after the ABLE Act became federal law, states across the country have been quick to pass legislation to implement it. Since January, twenty-five states—including Minnesota—have passed ABLE Act implementation bills, and I've been pushing the federal government to issue regulations so that these states have the guidance they need to launch ABLE programs and families can realize the law's benefits.

Many Minnesotans know a family or a person who has been affected by a disability. For a lot of us, this is personal.

When my daughter was born, she couldn't swallow for nearly two years. She had a feeding tube, and the doctors didn't know what was wrong with her. It ended up being a temporary problem, and we were able to get through it. But during those two years, I was able to see through the eyes of a parent of a child who was struggling, and I know that, like me, the parents of children with disabilities want what is best for their families—both now and for the years to come.

There are families like these all across the country – including many here in Minnesota – who can envision a brighter future for their loved ones thanks to this legislation. That's why more than 70 organizations that help people with disabilities support this legislation, including the American Association of People with Disabilities, Autism Speaks, and the National Disability Institute.

In the 25 years since the Americans with Disabilities Act was signed into law, we have made progress in removing barriers and empowering people with disabilities. Now we must do even more. This is one of those laws that will do exactly what it says it will do: help millions of Americans with disabilities all across the country achieve a better life by helping them save for their future. Though there is still more work to be done, this is an important step to ensuring those with disabilities have the same opportunities as everyone else.

The projected sale of 15 or more residence lots, on the south side of Arlington is attracting quite a bit of comment. No such sale has ever been held here. The United States Real Estate and Development Company of Spring Valley, Minn. proposes to plot out fifteen or more lots on the property they bought from Charles Hillemann, and sell them to the highest bidders. Arlington is a growing town and residence lots have been scarce as hens' teeth and prices out of sight for several years.

Grand Canyon of the Colorado in Arizona is a national park at last, after more than 80 years of endeavor by the nature lovers of the country. Congress has passed an act changing the national monument to a national park, and has appropriated money for its development.

The Big Stone Canning Co. is erecting a huge warehouse adjoining the factory to facilitate the handling of the large amount of corn which will be canned this season. The corn crop looks very promising and the factory will soon start to hum.

Work on the new hog barn at the fair grounds is progressing nicely and the building will be completed in a few days. Many of our citizens have contributed help in this work.

The 81st annual Sibley County Fair will open the gates Friday and continue until Sunday night. Fair officials have gone the limit in the way of expenditures for the very best of entertainment and are expecting a record breaking attendance. One of the highlights will be the big car races on Saturday and Sunday afternoons. The fair parade, at 12:30 p.m. down Arlington's

Main Street, will be bigger and better than ever this year. The fair will come to a close Sunday evening with a beautiful display of fireworks.

Another old landmark has vanished from the village of Green Isle when the stockyard was torn down. Many a car load of livestock was processed through this yard but due to the trucking of stock to the market the yard became obsolete.

Preparations are underway to blacktop Highway 25 between Green Isle and Belle Plaine. Large stockpiles of gravel have been laid along the route. The highway was rebuilt last year.

A delegation from St. Mary's Catholic Church building committee was present at the regular meeting of the Arlington City Council on Monday evening. The three-man group informed the council members that they had contacted Raymond and Bernard Scheer and they have agreed to donate the necessary land for a street leading from Highway 5 to the church property if the city wanted the land. Jim O'Brien, spokesman for the building committee, asked that the city send a letter to Bernard Scheer stating that the land would be used for a street. St. Mary's has agreed to pay for any survey costs necessary in bringing the land into the city limits, according to O'Brien.

A 50-year-old rural Jessenland township farmer was killed instantly early Monday afternoon near here in what police officers describe as a "freakish" tractor accident. Milo Berger died when a wheel came off his tractor, causing it to go into a spin and tip over. He was thrown from the vehicle, but was not pinned underneath, according to Henderson police chief William Schriber.
