Arlington EDA to promote its central business district facade loan program

By Kurt Menk Editor

The Arlington Economic Development Authority (EDA), during its regular meeting on Monday night, April 9, voted 4-0 and approved a motion to approve a recommendation and keep the central business district as the area for the Arlington Central Business District Facade Loan Program.

The Arlington City Council will act upon the recommendation during its next regular meeting at 6:30 p.m. Monday, April 16.

Purpose

The Arlington Central Business District Facade Loan Program provides an incentive to stimulate visible investment in Arlington's Central Business District (Downtown). Property owners are encouraged to consider improvements that incorporate the surrounding community design and atmosphere including but not limited to aesthetics, environment, cultural and historic elements, and architecture.

The program provides a matching forgivable loan for actual design and construction costs, up to $2,500 per property address, per calendar year. Qualifying projects must be of an approved design, be applied for by commercial property owners and/or merchants, and be applicable to exterior building, landscape improvements, and other similar improvements visible from a public right-ofway. Approved projects will be funded on a firstcome/first-served basis until all funds are expended. In addition, the opportunity exists that the Arlington Economic Development Authority's revolving loan programs could be available to assist with construction costs associated with the implementation of façade designs.

Eligibility

1. Only property within the Central Business District is eligible for the loan program.

2. All work must be done on the exterior of the building/property and/or result in a publicly visible improvement.

3. All work done must be in accordance with the City of Arlington rules and regulations and the building code. All required permits must be obtained. Work shall include the correction of any known exterior building code viola-

4. Work in progress or performed prior to project approval will typically not be eligible for funding unless the EDA finds significant underlying purposes for work beginning prior to project approval (i.e. approaching winter season, inability of quorum for a meeting, and the

5. Funds may be used for the design of exterior building improvements, awnings, windows, doors and/or site landscaping, other than sod or seed, resulting in a publicly visible improvement and for actual construction costs related to an approved improvement. Other uses may also be eligible if prior approval is loaned by the Arlington Economic Development Authority. 6. Signs are eligible for this program but must be in connection with a facade improvement project and not be more than fifty (50) percent of the project cost proposed for loan match. 7. The following types of property are not eligible:

• Property in litigation • Property in condemnation or receivership • Tax exempt properties

• Exclusively residential • Properties zoned industri-

· Property considered nonconforming to the City's Code of Ordinances, unless the proposed improvements are intended to correct all the non-conforming issues.

Project Guidelines

Program oversight and authority for loan approval is delegated to the City of Arlington Economic Development Authority. The Economic Development Authority shall review loan applications and may approve loan issuance after considering the following guidelines:

1. Completed applications will be reviewed on a first come, first served basis. Photographs illustrating subject building(s) and property and proposed site changes/improvements may be required by the EDA.

2. Multiple property owners must submit separate applications for property/project. 3. Any business owner under a lease who submits and application must obtain and provide written consent of the property owner. Both

Sibley County Board awards federal bituminous contracts

By Amy Newsom Correspondent

The Sibley County Board of Commissioners, during their regular meeting in Gaylord on Tuesday morning, April 10, awarded contract 2018-02 for federal bituminous resurfacing projects on CSAH 9 and CSAH 13 to OMG Midwest, doing business as (DBA) Chard out of Belle Plaine $3,405,659,78.

Public Works Director Tim Becker reported that five bids were received ranging from $3,405,659.78 $3,899,766.60. The low bid came in 11 percent under the engineer's estimate. The County Board also awarded contract 2018-03 for the state aid bituminous resurfacing projects on CSAH 9, CR 117, and CSAH 17 to OMG Midwest dba Chard of Belle Plaine for $417,222.84.

Becker reported that he received three bids ranging $417,222.84 $543,430.24. The low bid came in six percent under the engineer's estimate.

The County Board also accepted quotes from Farm Rite of Dassel for the purchase of a new skid loader with bucket and for a Towmaster T-16T

Commissioner County Bobbie Harder questioned why Becker did not want to go with the lowest price skid loader which was a John Deere. Becker stated it was easier to have a uniform fleet when working on the equip-

County Commissioner Gary Kruggel questioned what else Public Works would haul with the new trailer besides the bobcat and wondered if it really needed a bigger trailer. Ultimately, the Board voted 4-0 to approve both purchases. County Commissioner Joy Cohrs was absent for the vote.

Medical Examiner

Sibley County Medical Examiner Dr. Strobl presented the County Board with her annual report.

She reported that 74 deaths were referred to the Medical Examiner's Office and 11 autopsies were performed.

Sibley County had five motor vehicle deaths, three non-motor vehicle related deaths, no homicides, and two suicides. The other deaths were classified as natural cause of death. She reported that they also approved 49 cremations.

County Commissioner Jim Swanson asked when an autopsy was required. Dr. Strobl stated that an autopsy was required when there were nonnatural causes and no documentation of what had happened, or possible public health issues like infectious diseases or genetic problems.

Other Business

• The County Board approved issuing a request for proposals (RFP) for zoning administrator services. Sibley County will contract with an outside consulting firm or individual to provide land use planning and zoning administrative services. Services will be needed for 30 to 45 hours per month. Proposals are due by noon on Friday, April 27.

• The County Board approved hay land rent agreements from April 1, 2018, to March 31, 2019 with the following area farmers: Eric Platz of Lafayette, $950 for the Clear Lake Park hay land, John Dieball of Henderson, $375 for the CSAH 11 Green Isle hay land, and Curtis Weckwerth of Arlington, $300 for the Sibley Landfill hay land.

County to continue recording board meetings

By Amy Newsom Correspondent

After a brief discussion on the pros and cons of recording County Board meetings, the Sibley County Commissioners voted 4-0 and approved a motion to continue recording board meetings.

The action took place at a regular meeting in Gaylord on Tuesday morning, April

County Commissioners Bobbie Harder, Gary Kruggel, Bill Pinske and Jim Swanson all voted in support of the motion. County Commissioner Joy Cohrs was not present at the meeting.

Swanson stated that at one point commissioner meetings were videotaped, but when the equipment stopped working, the county went to just audio recordings. He said MCIT, the county's insurance carrier, informed County Administrator Roxy Traxler that providing the audio recordings on the county's website opens the county up to liability because they are not meeting Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) requirements and not offering interpreting services for the recordings. MCIT recommended only recording meetings that were legally required to be recorded. Swanson questioned if the county wanted to pay the expense to cover themselves in case of litigations. Harder stated that she would like to leave things the way they are and continue audio taping the recordings and putting them on the county's website. She felt that some residents appreciate the audio recordings. Harder also stated that Traxler did her due diligence and informed them of MCIT's recommendation, but felt that recording the meetings was more important.

Arlington Radio Coverage

Pinske provided an update on the radio coverage issues in Arlington. Emergency Services radios are not working properly at the Sibley East High/Middle School, Ridgeview Sibley Medical Center, Attorney Ross Arneson's law office and several other locations in Arlington. Pinske reported that State Representative Glenn Gruenhagen and State Senator Scott Newman had been contacted about the problem.

Pinske stated that Gruenhagen felt grant money may be a possibility, but there would be a matching requirement. Newman wanted to know why it was a state issue. Pinske reported that it was a state issue because the Minnesota Department of Transportation (MnDOT) originally placed the towers and the placement of the towers is the reason for the coverage issues in Arlington.

Potential framework for rental licensing code is not well received at meeting

Our View: Approval of code will drive up rent in Arlington and be another regulation

A gathering for the Arlington Planning Commission to receive input on a potential framework for a rental licensing code in the City of Arlington did not go well last Thursday night. Approximately 20 people showed up and voiced their extreme displeasure over the possible rental licensing code.

The gathering was billed as an open house from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. which implied that residential rental property owners could arrive and leave as they so desired. People who attended the event were surprised that the gathering was actually a sit down meeting that started at 5 p.m. Residential rental property owners and even members of the Arlington Planning Commission who arrived late or had to leave early missed out on important discussion about the possible rental licensing code.

The reason behind the possible rental licensing code is directly connected to the proposed medical school that may or may not come to Gaylord in the future. Is that for the right reason? What happens if the proposed medical school does not come to Gaylord?

The City of Arlington, according to discussion at the meeting, has received about 20 complaints from renters over the last 10 years. Is an average of two complaints a year enough reason to implement a code that will affect many property owners in the community?

The possible rental licensing code, if approved, will impact residential rental property owners with a licensing fee along with spendy expenditures for repairs and renovations. A number of these residential rental property owners will turn around and pass these costs onto the renters. The result is rent in the City of Arlington will increase on many people who are already on a fixed in-

The proposal is officially being called a rental licensing code, but it will be nothing more than a fee and another regulation. It seems like the City of Arlington has implemented a number of regulations during the past 10 years. City officials, at some point, have to question when enough is enough. Many people like to live in small towns because there are not as many rules and regulations compared to the bigger cities. Arlington is not a mini Shakopee.

Questions need to be answered about medical school

Has Tax Increment Financing (TIF) become the standard handout for private development in the City of Gaylord? If the history of TIF, as reported by the Gaylord Hub in its March 29 and April 3 editions is the benchmark, the answer unfortunately is yes.

The City of Gaylord City Council, on Wednesday, April 2, unanimously passed Resolution 2018-12, which will in effect pay consulting fees to Northland Securities Inc., to assist Phil Kethahn in developing an Application for Tax Increment Financing to receive tax subsidies from the City of Gaylord for the development of the medical school and related facilities. So, the city is using tax dollars to develop a plan to give away tax dollars, what is wrong with this picture?

To add insult to injury, the City of Gaylord has yet to provide the citizens of Gaylord with any hard data to support the basis for providing TIF funding to Keithahn, the Danza Group, or whomever it is that are the private investors involved in this deal. Is the City of Gaylord so desperate for something, that they will do anything to get it? For the sake of the citizens of Gaylord and every taxing district (Sibley East Schools; Sibley County, etc.) that will be affected if this TIF District is created,

I hope not, at least not until very important questions are asked and a comprehensive analysis is conducted of the financial position of the development group. An analysis that precedes a TIF Plan and should be the basis for even considering handing out our hard-earned tax dollars for private development! Has an independent accounting firm reviewed and certified these documents?

- Business Plan
- Feasibility Study • Economic Impact Report
- Cash Flow Statements
- · Balance Sheets (i.e. assets, liabilities, equity, etc.)
- Tax Returns
- Profit/Loss Statements

There have been many anecdotal reasons given as to why the medical school is such a great opportunity for the City of Gaylord; a shot in the arm for growth according to our elected officials. But, the City of Gaylord is not a bank. In a TIF deal the City of Gaylord is supposed to be a partner and in a partnership both entities must have skin in the game. The City of Gaylord is offering up our hard-earned tax dollars. What equity do the developers bring to the table, assuring that if the deal goes south the citizens of Gaylord are not left holding the bag?

In the April 2018, "From the Mayor's Desk..." letter to the citizens of Gaylord, Mayor Don Boeder stated that "...I have been involved with this (medical school) from the ground floor and have done my research." I would ask the Mayor; what research is that? Because if the Mayor's research has not included financial facts, with no spin, the citizens of Gaylord and Sibley County will be allowing its elected officials to play Russian roulette with our futures, and the skin in that game will be ours!

We need to protect our children from sexual predators

To The Editor,

Recently four sex offenders were released just outside the City of Arlington. This is a concern for not just the citizens of Arlington, but all citizens of Sibley County. The failure of Governor Mark Dayton and the Minnesota Legislature to address the issues with the Minnesota Sex Offender Program or MSOP along with pressure from the legal system has caused the MSOP administration to start conditionally releasing these dangerous sex offenders into the community at large.

Taking into consideration that the administration of MSOP is going to want to place these sex offenders within reasonable driving distance of the security hospital it is only logical to conclude that unless there is action more of these damagerous sex offenders will be released into our and surrounding communities putting our children at danger.

While our local Minnesota House Representative Glenn Gruenhagen (18B) and Minnesota Senator Scott Newsom (18) have had the courage to offer the solution of indeterminate sentencing no one else in Saint Paul has had the courage to addresss the issues concerning MSOP. Therefore it is time for the various municipalities within Sibley County to act to protect our children. I propose that each municipality within Sibley County prayerfully consider enacting an ordinance that will protect our children by prohibiting dangerous sex offenders from living within 2.000 feet from schools, parks, and licensed daycare

Sibley East to participate in tornado drill

By Mari Lu Martens

SE Elementary Principal

Each year the Homeland Security and Emergency Management division of the Minnesota Department of Public Safety sponsors Severe Weather Awareness Week. As part of this week a statewide tornado drill is planned. Sibley East Elementary School will be participating in the annual statewide tornado drill scheduled for 1:45 p.m. Thursday, April 12.

In preparation for this drill we have been practicing with our students on why and how we prepare for these safety drills. We have participated in the statewide tornado drill in the past, however this year is different on account of our new facility. New safe spots and routes needed to be established and practiced. This week we reminded everyone of our emergency plan and practiced our emergency preparedness.

According to the National Weather Service, Minnesota experiences an average of 40 tornadoes per year. It is a good idea to create or update your family's plan and procedure, and then to practice that plan.

You can find more information such as weather alerts and warnings, types of warnings, personal weather alerts and siren activation information at the weather awareness website, https://dps.mn.gov.

Sibley East boys and girls track teams eager to get outside for outdoor meets

By Kurt Menk Editor

The Sibley East varsity boys and girls track teams are eager to get outside for practice and outdoor meets, according to head coach Chad Johnson.

Sibley East, due to the snow and cold weather, has yet to hit the outdoor track in Arlington.

"The runners have been running the streets and hallways," said Johnson. "The kids in the field events are getting the raw end of the deal. They have not been able to practice their specialized events."

Sibley East competed in an indoor meet at Minnesota Nevarez. State University, Mankato, last week. Another indoor meet at MSU was scheduled for Tuesday night, April 10.

The first outdoor meet is scheduled at Jordan next Tuesday, April 17. That outardy due to snow in the forecast this coming weekend.

The assistant coaches are Gary Kauffman, Jim Kreft, Mark Lundstrom and Mark Vrklan. Julio Alejandro is a volunteer coach.

Boys Team

The Wolverines return 10 letterwinners this spring. The returning letterwinners include seniors Logan Tesch and Jacob Willmsen; junior Jens Lundstrom: sophomores Travis Andrews and Lucas Tesch; freshmen Jackson Burdorf. Oscar Kreft, Jordan voung kids who have a lot of Latzke and Micah Scherer; and eighth grader Jose

The remaining high school athletes consist of juniors Jesse Farias, Gavin Kranz and Mason Kranz; sophomore Jack Thompson; and freshmen Logan Jones, Noah Kellermann, Devan Kumar, Jordan Mueller, Derek Steele, Aydan Ramos, Jackson Reid and Brevon Rose.

The remaining middle school athletes include eighth graders Aaron Elseth, Garrett Kroells and Lincoln Suebeck; and seventh graders Garrett Jones, Gavin Latzke, Logan Steele and Trevor Parrott.

Johnson said the Wolverines will rely on Logan Tesch who advanced to the state meet in two events last year. Willmsen, Lundstrom, Andrews and Lucas Tesch will also be key performers.

"We also have a lot of promise," said Johnson.

Girls Team

The Lady Wolverines return 13 letterwinners this spring. The returning letterwinners include seniors Tamara Ehrich and Madilyn Latzke; juniors Breanna Fahning and Brooke Willmsen; sophomores Elizabeth Alejandro, Isabelle Ballalatak, Lillian Beneke and Isabel Figueroa; freshmen Alyson Dieball, Jaden Kmetz, Audrey Parrott and Cassidy Schoener; and eighth grader Lucy Ballalatak.

The remaining high school athletes consist of juniors Kasha Bates and Madilyn Krentz; and sophomore Donnae Morton.

The remaining middle school athletes include eighth graders Alondra Cardenas, Morgan Halquist and Eleanor Kreft; and seventh graders Megan Brinkman, Shelby Dieball, Holly Otto and Kaitlyn Scherer.

Johnson said the Lady Wolverines will rely on Parrott who led the team in points last season. Latzke, Willmsen and "the Ballalatak sisters" will also be key performers.

"Again, youth will have a big impact on the girls program," said Johnson.

New plan fosters better understanding of deer management, citizen input sets a new statewide harvest target, increases citizen participation in deer management, and outlines ways to keep the population and habitat healthy.

The Department of Natural Resources is taking online public comments on the new plan now through Wednesday, May 9. Also, the DNR will hold 35 public meetings in April around the state so people can talk to wildlife managers, ask questions and provide input.

"We're setting a course for deer management that encourages more dialogue among stakeholders, the public, and DNR staff," said DNR Commissioner Tom Landwehr. "Our ultimate goal is to support our hunting traditions, better engage the public, and to maintain sustainable, healthy deer populations throughout Minnesota."

Part of the plan outlines strategic ways the DNR will prioritize its resources and activities to meet the plan's eight key goals, which range from keeping Minnesota deer healthy to ensuring biological and societal factors are considered in management deci-

"The plan recognizes the diversity of interests, considers multiple objectives, and is informed by the best available science," said Leslie McInenly, DNR acting wildlife populations and programs manager. "It also factors in ways to reduce the negative impacts deer can have on people and the landscape."

The plan establishes an annual statewide harvest target of 200,000 deer. Although only one of several performance measures outlined in the plan, the harvest target will help communicate how the DNR is meeting overall population goals through time.

In general, annual harvests less than 200,000 will indicate a need for more conservative regulations to rebuild deer populations. Harvests greater than 200,000 will suggest hunting regulations need to be liberalized so more deer are harvested to reduce populations.

"It's important for people to know we'll be measuring our performance in a variety of ways, from increased oppor-

Minnesota's new deer plan tunities for public engagement to improving deer habitat and limiting disease," McInenly said. "That strategy will inform us if objectives are being met and what areas need more work."

> McInenly added that the plan doesn't address the details of specific regulations or operational issues, but rather plots a long-term strategic direction for managing the herd.

> For more than a year, a 19member citizen's advisory group helped the DNR draft the deer plan. The group's members had knowledge of deer management, interests related to deer and familiarity with different areas of the state.

> "I want to express the agency's great appreciation for the substantial public input and work of committee members in developing the plan," McInenly said.

Public Can Now Comment On New Plan

The public can comment on the proposed plan on the website DNR mndnr.gov/deerplan.

A questionnaire asks people to indicate their level of satisfaction with the purpose, mission, vision and goals of the plan and provides opportunity for people to give additional feedback on whether the plan reflects the conversation and public input over the last few years.

Also, the DNR's 35 openhouse meetings in April will help people understand the deer plan. "The open houses provide an opportunity to learn more about the plan, ask questions, and meet the local staff who help manage wildlife and habitat," McInenly said.

There will be no formal presentation at the meetings. Instead, local wildlife staff will provide handouts explaining the deer plan and process and will talk with attendees individually and in small groups. All meetings are scheduled from 6-8 p.m. and people can arrive anytime during the two-hour time frame. Meetings are scheduled at several locations. In the Arlington and Green Isle area, a meeting will be held at the Nicollet Conservation Club.

Tony Padilla is new police captain in Glencoe

By Jakob Kounkel Staff Writer

McLeod County Chronicle
The Glencoe Police De-

The Glencoe Police Department is bringing in a new captain, Tony Padilla, to help solidify Glencoe as the fifth safest city in Minnesota.

Padilla used to serve in Gaylord as chief of police and worked for the McLeod County Sheriff's Office as a part-time deputy. He also served in the Army, starting out as an infantryman without a high school diploma. Throughout his 24 years of service, he advanced to one of the army's most prestigous roles — sergeant major —and walked out with a bachelor's degree in police science.

"That was my first career, and I really loved it," Padilla said about being in the Army. His second career was galvanized by his police science degree that he acquired in the military. Though a somewhat typical degree amongst law enforcement, he pursued it atypically. Padilla joined the Army on his 17th birthday, before finishing high school.

"Just like everybody else, the military is evolving," Padilla said about educational opportunities in the army. "It used to be that you didn't need a diploma to join (the army), but now everybody that joins has to have a high school diploma ... and if you want to get to the top, you have to have an education beyond that."

Padilla was able to take high school completion classes while in the Army, and he said it just ended up turning into a four-year degree. While a degree in law enforcement enabled him to pursue a second career, it was his experience in the Army that turned him into the police captain he is today.

"There's no better way to become an effective leader than going through the military," Padilla stated. Effective leadership is an essential part of any hierarchical system, like in the military or law enforcement fields. As a sergeant major, Padilla was often responsible for looking out and caring for 10,000 soldiers. That kind of leadership and responsibility can't be matched in industrial or commercial industries.

This brand of leadership isn't making sure that enough soft-touch pens are going around the office so nobody gets hand cramps; as Padilla described, it's more along the lines of making sure nobody's hoarding ammo, and it's split up evenly so, " ... if something goes down," there aren't any soldiers left without bullets.

In a world where peace and chaos are as malleable as a warm slice of butter, leadership isn't granted to anybody without certainty that they have the necessary tools. Achieving one of the highest roles in army leadership and the amount of responsibility bestowed upon him speaks highly of Padilla.

'Couple that with my experience in Gaylord-I know how it works from the top down," Padilla said. That's true of his experience as a military leader and a local police chief. Experience is paramount in the law enforcement field: knowing how the system works, accurate thinking in times of life-threatening distress, and keeping officers and soldiers organized is crucial to effective policing. Padilla has experience built on top of experience, like a muscle builder who doesn't know when to stop. He's relentless in his pursuit of bettering the communities he serves; he's been across the world to guard America's freedom, he's protected individuals and communities from crime, and now he's here to ensure the safety and well-being of Glencoe.

MnDOT seeks Adopt a Highway volunteers

The Minnesota Department of Transportation is looking for individuals and organizations to join the more than 4,100 groups and 16,000 people in the state who are Adopt a Highway volunteers.

The program, which realized an estimated $6 million benefit in 2017, is a public service project that helps reduce litter along the roadsides. It's been part of MnDOT's maintenance operations since 1990.

"Volunteers pick up litter, keep the roadways beautiful and save taxpayers money," said Ann McLellan, statewide Adopt a Highway manager. "When our volunteers are out cleaning the roadway ditches, MnDOT crews use their time to build and maintain our highways. It's a win-win for all and it shows that Minnesotans care about their state."

There are 5,455 segments of roadways defined for the program. Of those segments, 1.719 are available for adop-

"Most of the available segments are in Greater Minnesota. In the Twin Cities area, there are nine segments available," said McLellan.

The volunteers, representing schools, businesses, faithbased organizations, families and individuals, clean up nearly 10,000 miles of Minnesota roadways each year.

Last year volunteer groups, ranging from four to 25 people, spent an estimated 239,000 hours picking up 36,658 bags of litter. That's more than 112,000 pounds of Individuals and groups who want to volunteer should go to www.mndot.gov/adopt/ to find their local area program coordinator. MnDOT provides safety training, trash bags and safety vests, and picks up the filled bags that volunteers leave at the side of the road. MnDOT also posts signs along the adopted segments of roads with the names of the volunteer groups.

Volunteers are asked to commit to the program for at least two years and pick up litter on both sides of the roadway at least twice a year. The average length of an adopted roadway is two to three miles, although some roads are longer.

Brand new Minnesota Grown Directory now available

The 2018 Minnesota Grown Directory is now available. The one-thousandmember Directory boasts Minnesota agricultural products and services available directly from farmers and farmers markets.

The Directory is searchable by region, farm name, or product, including locally grown fruits and vegetables, meats, dairy items, wineries, nurseries, Christmas trees, Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) operations, and

"Minnesota's farmers offer a diverse range of quality products and the Minnesota Grown Directory is one of the best places to find local growers," said Minnesota Agriculture Commissioner Dave Frederickson. "Buying directly from farmers and farmers markets also helps ensure the economic vitality of communities across the state."

The Minnesota Grown Directory highlights farms and farmers markets from all parts of Minnesota, from International Falls to Worthington, Spring Grove to Lutsen, and hundreds of cities in be-

"The 2018 Minnesota Grown Directory has a new, user-friendly design," said Minnesota Grown Member Services Coordinator Karen Lanthier. "The Directory is the first place customers go to look for local fresh produce, agritourism locations, or farmers markets, and now that information is easier to find than ever. The online, mobile-friendly versions of the Directory is another a great way to search for farms and farmers markets for customers on the move."

The brand new Directory features peak season information for a variety of fruits and vegetables, storage tips, and preparation ideas, including recipes from local chefs. Minnesota Cooks - the educational outreach program of Directory sponsor Minnesota Farmers Union – has once again contributed recipes from local chefs and restauranteurs to contribute recipes that celebrate Minnesota's unique agricultural offerings.

Sen Yai Sen Lek's Long Bean Salad utilizes a variety of freshly grown produce, while The Bluestem Restaurant offers a Bison Brisket Slider recipe using locally raised bison. Each region of the state has a featured recipe, brought to life by the lush photography of Katie Can-
