Public hearing will be held on outdoor storage in city

By Kurt Menk
Editor

The Arlington City Council and staff, after hearing numerous concerns from citizens this past August, directed the Planning and Zoning Commission to review ordinance language related to outdoor storage. Limits on types of outdoor storage, where items could be stored, and storage pad surfacing requirements were of particular concern.

The Planning Commission, during the past several months, has reviewed the existing standards. Replacement standards have been drafted for public comment. Any residents who are interested in the proposed standards and those citizens concerned with existing standards are invited to comment at a hearing in the Council Chambers at 7 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 1.

Standards were originally placed into effect to provide a baseline for outside storage throughout the city in an attempt to balance property owner rights and a desire for neat and orderly yards, according to Zoning Administrator Cynthia Smith-Strack. The existing standards and the proposed revisions apply to all property in the city – residential, commercial, and industrial.

The proposed ordinance amendment further defines and clarifies what types of exterior storage are allowed in the city, according to Smith-Strack. The proposed amendment allows several types of outdoor storage without limit and a previous requirement regarding surfacing of outdoor storage pads in side and rear yards is proposed to be removed.

In addition, under the proposed amendment, boats and RVs may be stored outdoors year round. However, if being stored outdoors in the off-season they will need to be screened from the view of adjacent public streets and alleys.

A copy of the proposed ordinance is available for review at the City Office during normal business hours. Anyone interested in commenting on the proposed revision is encouraged to attend the hearing and offer their input, according to Smith-Strack.

News Briefs

G.I. woman injured in crash

A Green Isle woman was injured in a two-vehicle accident at the intersection of Highway 212 and Dairy Avenue at 5:27 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 20, according to the Minnesota State Patrol.

A 2001 Toyota Rav 4 driven by Katie L. Finch, 34, Glencoe, was eastbound on Highway 212 and attempted to turn left and go north on Dairy Avenue, according to the report. Finch failed to yield at the intersection and struck a westbound 2004 Pontiac Vibe driven by Polly Rapp, 53, Green Isle.

Rapp was transported by the Glencoe Ambulance to the Glencoe Regional Health Services where she was treated for non-life threatening injuries, according to the report.

Finch and two other passengers in her vehicle did not suffer any apparent injuries, the report said.

The Glencoe Fire Department also assisted at the scene.

City Council accepts donation

The Arlington City Council, during its regular meeting on Monday night, Nov. 21, unanimously approved a motion to accept a $100 donation from the Reuben and Dorene Willmsen Memorial. The donation will go toward the replacement of the fire brush rig.

Elseth earns Eagle Scout

Isaac Elseth, a member of Boy Scout Troop #59, recently received his Eagle Scout badge during a Court of Honor in Gaylord.

His Eagle Scout project was to build a fence around the shore of the Gaylord Stormwater Retention Pond. The purpose of the fence was to keep the one-half mile long walking trail clean of migrating geese and their droppings.

Elseth, a 2015 graduate of the Sibley East Senior High School, is the son of Greg and Delaine Elseth, Winthrop.

Bell ringers are needed

President Tim Haggemiller, Vice President Bill Pinske and Secretary/Treasurer Larry Sorenson were re-elected to their respective positions.

Members also heard reports of economic development projects in Arlington by

The group voted to be an early supporter of the 2017 Arli-Dazzle Parade with a $1,000 donation toward its grand giveaway.

It was reported that the corporation had a successful and profitable year, adding $49,000 in new loans and reported all loans are current.

The policy of the revolving loan fund is to provide gap financing to assist companies or individuals to obtain financing to expand current business or start new business ventures and find a need for equity financing as part of their expansion project.

The group would encourage any local business entity considering expansion to consider utilizing Arlington Industries revolving loan fund for a part of their financing package. Individuals can check with Secretary Larry Sorenson for information regarding the loan fund at 507-964-5588 or contact loan committee members Scott Sorenson or Pete Arneson at the Arlington State Bank.

‘Tis the season to be shopping

Our View: Shop at home and support the local business community

The holiday shopping season is almost here. For most people that begins on Black Friday which is Friday, Nov. 25. Shopping, of course, should not be the focus of the holiday season. There are much more fulfilling activities such as spending time with friends and family, counting your blessings and celebrating a special birth. Gift giving, however, is a part of the holiday tradition and this season local residents should consider giving back to the community by shopping more at home. Why? The business people in the community take special pride in serving the residents of Arlington, especially during the holiday season. They are there to assist you and not take advantage of you. In addition, they offer personalized customer service which is almost nonexistent in bigger communities. They are always willing to help you with any of your Christmas needs. Shopping in Arlington is also convenient. Finding a parking spot is easy and the stores are within an easy walking distance. There are no hassles with long checkout lines, no wasted time waiting for a clerk’s assistance or other inconveniences. The environment in Arlington is also beautiful with all the Christmas decorations hanging outside and inside the stores. However, the most important reason to shop in Arlington is because the money will stay in the community. By keeping the money in Arlington, you will benefit your friends and neighbors, especially in these difficult and challenging economic times. In addition, people should never forget that it is the local businesses who pay taxes which help fund the school along with city and county services. Futhermore, they faithfully support many non-profit groups, service organizations and various church, school and civic fundraisers throughout the year. Again, the best Christmas present that local residents can give their community is to shop at home this holiday season.

It’s the day before Thanksgiving, and the butcher is just locking up when a man begins pounding on the front door.
“Please let me in,” says the man desperately. "I forgot to buy a turkey, and my wife will kill me if I don't come home with one."
“Okay,” says the butcher. "Let me see what I have left." He goes into the freezer and discovers that there's only one scrawny turkey left. He brings it out to show the man.
“That one is too skinny,” says the man. “What else have you got?”
The butcher takes the bird back into the freezer and waits a few minutes and brings the same turkey back out to the man.
“Oh, no,” says the man, “That one doesn’t look any better. You better give me both of them!”

“Did it not taste good?” her mother asked.

Letter To The Editor

Attend meetings and do your own research

To The Editor,
I always appreciate a good laugh and Phil Keithahn’s letter to the editor in the Nov. 17 issue of the Gaylord Hub literally made me “laugh out loud.” Not to disparage Henny Penny, after all the poor chick was operating on limited information and a reactive disposition and both problems got her in trouble. Contrary to Mr. Keithahn’s characterizing me as a Henny Penny, every issue that I raised in my campaign for Sibley County Commissioner was thoroughly researched using public records available from Sibley County. On the issue of the medical school I attended many Gaylord City Council, EDA, and Sibley County board meetings to learn what I could about the proposed medical school.
I am pleased to see that Mr. Keithahn apparently follows me on Facebook. It is always good to have followers. The comment I made regarding the recent trips to three medical schools was based on the report provided to the Sibley County Board by Roxy Traxler on Nov. 8. Ms. Traxler was part of the team that toured the schools and she made the statements regarding public/private funding and future informational meetings, which I posted on my Facebook page, Diana Karau – Citizen Taxpayer.

Mr. Keithahn states that the proposed medical school will be a privately owned for-profit school that has no plans to ask for taxpayer funding, but will ask for tax increment financing (TIF) that has no cost to the taxpayers. Mr. Keithahn, tax increment financing is taxpayer funding. TIF works by allowing cities to use the property, sales and other taxes collected from new developments – taxes that would otherwise go to schools, counties, libraries, fire departments and other municipal services – to subsidize those same developments. New developments impose costs on schools, fire departments and other municipal services, so other taxpayers must either pay more to cover those costs or accept a lower level of services as services are spread to developments that are not paying for them. We do not know for sure that developments subsidized by TIF would not have happened without TIF funding. What we do know is that developments subsidized by TIF do come with a price to taxpayers.

I, like Mr. Keithahn, encourage you to speak to members of the team that toured the medical schools. I also encourage you to attend Gaylord City Council meetings, EDA meetings, and any other meetings you can where the medical school will be discussed. I encourage citizens to do their own research, because at the end of the day we will each be responsible for what we know or don’t know about the proposed development of the medical school. Mr. Keithahn has repeatedly stated an opening date of 2018 for the medical, so there is no time to waste, because heaven forbid that the sky should fall.

A holiday crisis - again?

By Glenn Mollette
America's next crisis most likely started around the Halloween holiday. Many Americans buy more candy than they give away to the children trick or treating. Since we want to be thrifty and most of us like candy we keep it. We hold on to the candy to demonstrate that we are good stewards of money. We also hold on to it just to eat a piece or two or three every day. I've held on to Halloween candy before and eaten handfuls of it in a day.
I normally gain weight if I eat more than 2000 calories a day. This proves I'm not exercising enough even though I might work off a couple of hundred calories at the gym - on some days.
I used to exercise 90 minutes or even two hours and could still gain weight since I have the ability to eat more than I work off on a treadmill.
Next comes the Thanksgiving holiday. I love Thanksgiving. I have a lot to be thankful for like most Americans. My wife has already been making and freezing cookies. The problem is I know that they are in the freezer. and I know where to find them in the freezer. I can take one out at a time and put it in the microwave. Occasionally I have taken two out of the freezer. I hope we have some left by the time Thanksgiving is actually here.
For some reason after Thanksgiving is over we begin to really settle in to the holiday spirit. Christmas programs, parades and all the festive songs begin airing on the radio. Something sort of comes over me with festive singing, dancing and holiday cheer. A glass of eggnog from the grocery store which is loaded with calories and fat is so delicious. Of course, who can ever have just one glass of eggnog?

I am blessed in that our freezer is full in preparation for Thanksgiving. My wife has been the Commander in Chief in regards to our meal the last few years. She has learned how to prepare far in advance of the big day. In times past she co-chaired this event with her mother. Her Mom has spent the last few years in and out of the hospital and nursing home and so Carole has carried the ball of cooking the big meals. We will have plenty to eat and for that I am very grateful.
The only problem is that by about January 1, I will be standing on the scale shaking my head. "Whoa is me...or whoa is my weight!" I'll likely exclaim. I keep reading articles that Americans only gain about one pound during the holiday season. However, if we only gain one pound a holiday season and never lose it, then after a few years we are in very sad shape. Sadly too many Americans are in very bad physical shape. Let me quickly stop here and say, I think I gain three or four pounds around Christmas and then have to work all winter to lose it and so far I have. However, losing weight just simply gets harder all the time.

We smile and know we all fight this battle of eating too much and exercising too little. Unfortunately it's nothing to really smile that much about. We kill ourselves eating too much and eating the wrong foods. Too many Americans are obese. That only leads to serious health problems from heart issues to cancer and to diabetes. Diabetes is such a chronic problem in America. There are different numbers on diabetes. About 30 million people in our country are struggling with this health dilemma. Millions of people are undiagnosed. Diabetes leads to blindness, kidney failure and amputations of feet and legs. There is nothing pretty about diabetes.
I confess I eat too much sugar. Overall I eat too much of everything. I've always tried to work out but it takes balance in eating, routine exercise and a mentality of trying to live healthy.
We are in a crisis in America due to healthcare costs. We can't afford our medical insurance and it's almost always financially painful to go the doctor. I see people in nursing homes who are too young to be there. They have become physically dilapidated and unable to care for themselves. The estimated annual health care cost of obesity-related illnesses are a staggering $190.2 billion or nearly 21 percent of annual medical spending in the United

How to cook a turkey for Thanksgiving

Editor's Note: The following recipes were submitted by students in the kindergarten class of Jolene Bergs at the Sibley East Elementary School in Arlington. The recipes were reprinted as told to their teacher.

I would get a turkey from outside. Then I would cook it on the stove for 6 minutes. I would take it off the stove and eat it with ketchup, mayonnaise, and mustard. I would also eat a chicken piece, pizza, and some macaroni.

- Rubii Alvarado

I would get a turkey from Walmart. I would cook it up in the oven at my house for 13 minutes. My mom would cut it up and then we would eat it. We would eat it with nothing else.

About three-fourths of the rural telephones in the Arlington area were put out of commission by the storm on Wednesday night of last week. In addition the local toll lines were out for three days and it was impossible to put through any long distance calls. A repair crew is working hard to get the phone service back to normal, but today (Wednesday), a week after the storm, there are still about 150 phones out. The damage was caused by heavy wet snow driven by strong winds which packed it on poles and wires where it froze-eventually building up enough weight to pull down wires and poles.

When the filing period came to a close Tuesday night, only four candidates had filed for City Election on December 4th. Two of them, Robert Mueller and Vernon Budahn, filed for the office of mayor to succeed George Noack who did not file. Ernest Lemburg filed for the office of alderman to succeed Ernest Spannaus, who also, failed to file for re-election. George Bandelin filed for re-election as Justice of the Peace for a two year term.

Truck owners and operators will have something "new" to add to their vehicles by the first of the year, with the issuance of specifications by Commissioner of Highways M. J. Hoffmann for the new wheel flaps or mud guards which will be required on all trucks after January 1.

Swine flu clinics were held throughout Sibley County over the weekend. A total of 1,100 people received the shots at the Arlington Public School Sunday. According to Marie Soeffker, county coordinator for the program, the Arlington Clinic had the largest turnout. At the Green Isle Clinic 352 people received the shots.

The Sibley County Sheriff is advising the people of Sibley County to use a little extra caution when leaving their homes. In the past week we have had five burglaries, three in towns and two in the country. All happened in the daytime. The burglar will sometimes knock on a door and if the resident is home he will ask if they have seen a truck or van and then leave.

States. Childhood obesity alone is responsible for $14 billion in direct medical costs. (healthcommunitieshealthfuture.org)

There are all kinds of scenarios. Some people inherit diabetes, fight it hard and still lose the battle. Lately, I've seen this in my own family.

My challenge to me is to try to get ahead of this and not let eating bad, inactivity and extra weight become a holiday crisis - again.

MnDOT adopts new mowing/hay baling standard and permit

The Minnesota Department of Transportation (MnDOT) urges those who want to mow and or bale hay on state right of way, land along Minnesota's state roadways, to put in their permit applications early next year.

MnDOT recently adopted a statewide standard for mowing and baling in the right of way and has developed a new permit form. State law requires that MnDOT manage right of way mowing, which includes cutting in advance of baling. And, by state law, it is a misdemeanor to mow on state highway right of way without a permit.

"Having local landowners mow, and bale hay if they choose, in the right of way can be mutually beneficial," said Steve Lund, MnDOT's state maintenance engineer. "But we want to ensure that it is done at the right time of year to make sure we are protecting habitat for wildlife and pollinators. And we want to ensure that those who mow and harvest hay are doing so safely."

The new permit provides information on when and where mowing and baling can occur, safety measures required and how long baled hay can be left in the right of way. Large round hay bales are heavy and can be a significant hazard to vehicles that might run into the ditch. Landowners who want to mow on right of way adjacent to their property need to apply for a permit before the end of January. On Feb. 1, all others may apply for permits to mow on state right of way. MnDOT will accept, review and approve permits on a first-come, first-serve basis.

The new permit can be found at www.mndot.gov/mowing , or by looking on MnDOT's A to Z website directory for mowing/hay baling permit.

Sibley East girls basketball team returns 4 letterwinners this season

By Kurt Menk
Editor

The Sibley East varsity girls basketball team, under the direction of second-year head coach Jim DeSart, returns four letterwinners from last year's squad which posted a 4-8 mark in the Minnesota River Conference and a 6-19 record overall.

The four letterwinners include seniors Hannah Wentzlauff and Alli Harter and juniors Taylor Brinkman and Morgan Stearns.

The remaining juniors are Taylor Perschau and Alexandra Stock.

The sophomores include Rachel Rettmann, Madisyn Petree and Abby Widmer.

The freshmen consist of Bianca Mendez, Carley Weber, Giselle Ramirez, Lexy Stock, McKenzie Latzke, Donnae Morton, Lily

Beneke and Ali Klehr.

"Last year, from the beginning of the year to the end of the year, I saw much improvement," said DeSart. "While it did not lead to more wins, I can honestly say I saw growth and some increased basketball IQ. My expectation is we will continue to grow as a team with the goals of obviously more success on the scoreboard."

DeSart continued, "However, we did lose three seniors to graduation and they had a lot of experience as well which leads to stability on the floor. We have some players this year that will need to step up their game to meet the challenges we face. We don't have as much experience as I would like, but that is the nature of high school sports with graduations."

DeSart said one area where the team will need to do a much better job is to reduce its turnover ratio and make better decisions on the floor.

"Plain and simple, we have to take care of the ball," said DeSart. "The other area that needs a drastic improvement is rebounding. Kids these days don't always understand the importance behind getting boards. I plan to make individual challenges to players and the team to get those numbers up. It is far more important than a player worrying about how many points they score. I am more focused on defensive intensity and rebounding. For offenses, yes, you have the structure, but at the end of the day, we need to be basketball players and trust our instincts to create on the floor."

Other key areas that the Lady Wolverines need improvement are on court and basketball sense which is a natural and evolving factor, according to DeSart.

"In order to bring this program to where we want it to go, we need to improve in all areas this season and continue the positive progress that we started last season," said DeSart. "Every player has a role and plays an important role for us. I can expect that we will be leaning heavily on the experience we have on the floor as well as our incoming ninth grader McKenzie Latzke."

Sibley East will open its season against visiting New Ulm in non-conference play at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 29.

Eagles on roadways, give them a brake

It's the time of year when an increase in deer activity leads to more road-killed deer that attract animals, such as eagles, to a free meal along roadways. This is also the time of year when Minnesota Department of Natural Resources nongame wildlife staff and area wildlife managers receive many calls about injured or dead eagles on Minnesota roads.

Why do eagles get hit by vehicles? After all, people rarely see a crow injured or dead along the roadway. Crows simply fly off.

Just as an overloaded plane can't take off, eagles can "over eat" and become too heavy to fly until they digest their meal. Eagles can also suffer from neurological issues if they are exposed to lead in the carcass of the animal they are eating. When this happens, eagles become disoriented and do not know to fly off when a car is approaching.

"When deer are particularly active, we tend to get calls about eagles that are injured or killed by vehicles or sick and dying from lead poisoning," said Christine Herwig, DNR northwest region nongame specialist. "If you see a dead deer on the road and can safely move the deer off the roadway, this improves the safety of other motorists and wildlife."

People who encounter a dead eagle can leave it alone or bring it to the nearest DNR office; it's a good idea to call ahead to be sure they have a freezer. Eagles are sent to a national feather repository where the feathers and other eagle parts are cleaned and distributed to Native American reservations for use in ceremonies.

"You may not keep a dead eagle, but by law you are allowed to transport a dead eagle to a state or federal wildlife agency office." Herwig said. "In 1940, Congress enacted the Bald and Golden Eagle Protection Act, which makes possession of an eagle or an eagle feather a federal crime punishable by a $10,000 fine and a year in prison."

For people who encounter an injured eagle, Herwig recommends either contacting a permitted wildlife rehabilitator or letting nature take its course. Some eagles can survive their injuries and be transported to a rehabilitator like the University of Minnesota's Raptor Center, which rehabilitates more than 800 sick and injured hawks, eagles, falcons and owls a year. Again, there are exceptions to federal laws, including an allowance for those attempting to bring wounded birds to a permitted wildlife rehabilitator. Citizens may not rehabilitate wildlife without a permit.

Before transporting an eagle to the Raptor Center, DNR office or wildlife rehabilitator, Herwig recommends to first contact the local DNR office or rehabilitator. Transporting any injured animal, particularly a raptor, can be challenging and even dangerous. Thick leather gloves should be worn and a blanket (without loops) could be put over the head of the animal to calm it down. Be sure the animal is contained in a secure and appropriately sized pet carrier or box. Do not feed or water the animal, and bring the animal to a permitted wildlife rehabilitator as soon as possible. Being near humans and around unfamiliar, loud noises is stressful to wildlife, especially when they are injured. When transporting any wild animal in a vehicle, passengers should remain quiet, leave the radio off and leave the animal alone.

Bethlehem Express at St. Paul's in Arlington on Saturday, Dec. 3

St. Paul's Lutheran Church, located at 101 West Chandler Street in Arlington, will once again be transformed into a train depot as part of the Arli-Dazzle festivities on Saturday, Dec. 3.

The Bethlehem Express will take passengers on an imaginary journey to Bethlehem to experience the true meaning of Christmas.

Several "trains" are scheduled throughout the afternoon for this family-friendly event. Upon arrival, visitors will receive a free ticket at the depot to begin their journey. A conductor will then guide groups of passengers from stop to stop inside the church where riders will listen to the choir sing Christmas carols, participate in making a small craft, and enjoy a snack and refreshments before arriving at the final destination of Bethlehem. Here riders will view a short DVD on the birth of Jesus, the real meaning of Christmas.

Trains begin leaving the depot at noon and will depart every 30 minutes. The last train departs at 3:30 pm to allow ample time before the start of the Arli-Dazzle Parade. Each train ride lasts about one hour. Visitors may also consider arriving by way of the Arli-Dazzle horse drawn sleigh rides. No reservations are needed and the church is wheelchair accessible.

For more information on this free event visit St. Paul's website at www.stpaularlington.com.
